A Grand Old Birthday Distribution's Mainspring Bakers and White Collars A Lawyer Can

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1922, Star Company.)

Yesterday the Flag celebrated its 145th birthday, anniversary of the day when John Adams introduced in Congress a resolution making the flag we know, but with only thirteen stars, the flag of the United States.

It is a first-class flag, and ever since it was put up it has STAYED up. It has not attacked others wantonly, nor failed to defend itself from attack.

It has attended to its own business and let other people's business alone for 145 years. May it do the same for 145 years to come, and then for ten times that length of time.

How many stars will be in that flag of stars and stripes ten thousand years from now?

Ten thousand years is less than a minute in the life of the world and the probable life of the human race.

Will the days of ten thousand years hence see on this earth one flag for all the world and all the peoples melted into one? Or will it still find us, as we are now, separately struggling, separately and selfishly accumulating, violently interested in the fact that scientists have dug up gold coins made by Croesus 2,400 years ago, and MORE interested in gold coin than in anything else?

While celebrating the birthday of the Stars and Stripes and the discovery of gold coins made by Croesus, it would not be a bad idea to recall Solon's warning to that same Croesus on the dangers of too much prosperity. We have the prosperity, and enjoy it; we do not see the dangers.

Advertising clubs of the world, gathered at Milwaukee, represent most important work—DISTRIBUTION. We know how to make what we want in factories, how to raise it out of the ground, how to pile it up on shelves of libraries.

The great problem is HOW TO DISTRIBUTE IT, how to get water from oceans and lakes onto dry land, knowledge from books into men's minds, goods from the factories into men's hands, food from farms into men's stomachs.

Advertising is the mainspring of distribution. First to have what people want, then to let them know you have it, then to force distribution by creating demand.

Once the man in business hunted for a store where crowds would gape and thousands see his window. That is old, out of date. Now he locates himself where he pleases, and puts his announcement in the real show window, which is the advertising page, the window that millions pass, and study.

Jewish union bakers in New York, fighting employers, started their own shop and sold bread cheap. Were they applauded for selling bread cheap? Not exactly. Twenty-seven of them have been indicted, accused of selling below cost to drive out competition.

Nobody was indicted for selling bread or sugar or anything else at extortionately high prices. But when union bakers get together to cut the price of bread, that's another matter.

It is all legal, of course, but it puzzles you a little.

Now the turn of the men with white collars. The clerks of the railroads are to have their pay cut down, and about forty millions more will be saved for railroad owners. It is easy enough to cut down what workers get from the railroads. You will find it harder when it comes to cutting down what the railroads get from the public.

One lawyer, it seems, can do what the Supreme Court can't do. The Supreme Court said it hadn't power to stop gambling in "futures" in grain, sold by men that haven't got it and bought by men that never get it.

The Curb Exchange in New York stops gambling in stocks not issued—an unharvested crop, as it were. Samuel Untermyer said to that stock exchange crowd: "If it doesn't stop I will put you in jail." And they stopped.

It depends a good deal on how you say it. Constitution or no Constitution.

Lost Money on Job and Paid Fines of $50, Too

John Doucette and Walter Liberty paid $1 a foot for lumber today, but not in the open market.

It was like this:

John and Walter some time ago contracted to build a house on Winchester Street, Newton Highlands, for J. A. Brown, for the sum of $875. They completed the job this week, compared notes, figured expenses, estimated overhead and found they had made no money on the job.

Early this morning Officer Bailey, walking his beat on Winchester Street, saw two men busily engaged in lugging away lumber from the newly finished Brown house. It was Messrs. Doucette and Liberty. They were charged with taking fifty feet each.

Before Judge Bacon in the Newton Court, they were fined $50 each.

Alleged to Be Running Rum From Steamer Off Narragansett Bay

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 15.—Five alleged rum-running vessels, plying between a steamer anchored in Narragansett Bay and the American coast, have been seized by Federal agents, United States Attorney Hayward announced today.

The seized vessels were the oceangoing tugs H. S. Lockwood and Kentucky and the barges City of Malden, City of Boston and Lermond. The tugs were seized in the harbor here. The Lermond was taken at New Bedford, and the other two barges at New London.

The five vessels have twice unloaded the steamer Corona of alcohol and whiskey loaded in New York ostensibly for delivery in Greece, Mr. Hayward said.

The Corona, owned by the Globe Steamship Company of New York, and operated under Peruvian registry, put out for Greece last March with a cargo of 40,000 gallons of grain alcohol, according to information gathered by the Federal agents.

Instead of proceeding to Greece, it is alleged, she anchored in Narragansett Bay and turned it over to the five vessels which delivered it to bootleggers in Newtown Creek.

Last month, it is alleged, the Corona again cleared for Greece, this time with 2,000 cases of whiskey, which she had taken on at Bermuda. Again she anchored and turned her cargo over to the American rum-runners, it is alleged.

AYER IS CALLED AT INQUEST IN GIRL'S DEATH

The inquest into the death of Alice L. Harbour, young Dorchester stenographer, found dying from an overdose of poison in a room at the Commonwealth Hotel, Bowdoin street, West End, in April, began in Municipal Court today before Judge Parmenter.

ADMITS PRISON TERM; SAYS IT DOES NOT FIGURE IN CASE

Intimation that Jack Sanborn had run away from his pretty bride Eleanor, because of intimations that her uncle, W. Robert Montgomery, financier, had once served time in Sing Sing, was met square-toed by the Boston financier this afternoon.

"It is true," said Mr. Montgomery, in a statement to the American, "I was imprisoned. As president of the Hamilton National Bank of New York I was convicted of a technical crime to satisfy an attorney-general whose assistants I had caused to be indicted for crime.

"I do not know whether young Sanborn knew it or not. We have not discussed it. But that has nothing to do with the affairs of my niece.

MONTGOMERY'S STORY.

"And I've been tempted for years to telephone the newspapers to come up and interview me concerning my experience as a banker who served time in a penitentiary," Mr. Montgomery continued, "if I thought that would rid me of the blackmailers.

"Within three weeks a new blackmailer bobbed up. He intimated through lawyers that he had a claim against me. Then he sent word through an acquaintance that he'd like to settle without publicity, as he realized I had once been the president of a New York bank and might be embarrassed.

"Might be embarrassed? There is not a newspaper of any size in the United States that does not have the story of my New York experiences in its morgue. There is nothing to print that has not been printed—front paged—headlined.

"I have made no effort to run away from New York and bide. I go to New York once or twice a week. My friends are my old friends, my clubs the old clubs. I was tried and convicted as W. Robert Montgomery and I am known as W. Robert Montgomery in Boston.

"I was christened William Robert. There are four William Roberts in Boston and there was one in New York, a member of my club, who was published for non-payment of dues and whose bills became mixed up with mine. For that reason I changed the usage of my name from William R. to W. Robert Montgomery.

BUYS INTO BANK.

"In 1907 I was vice-president of the Hamilton National Bank of New York city. It had $12,000,000 in deposits. I bought the controlling interest of the bank from E. R. Thomas and became president. Morse and Heinze, who were undergoing attacks at that time and whose National Bank of North America was closed by the Clearing House, had held a small account of stock in the bank. HARVARD MAN'S WIFE AWARDED DIVORCE

A romance which began at Harvard when Blair Reiley, now a lawyer in Newark, N. J., was a student in that institution, culminated today in Judge Flynn of the Superior Court granting a divorce to Elsie Joyce Reiley, on the ground of desertion.

Mrs. Reiley, who was Elsie Joyce Marshall of No. 3 Beckwith Circle, Somerville, said she became the wife of Reiley while he was attending Harvard Law School and living at No. 53 Wendell street, Cambridge. They lived happily together until Reiley was graduated from the Law School, when, Mrs. Reiley says, he deserted her.

It appeared that Reiley made an arrangement by which his wife, who since their separation has been employed as a dressmaker, to provide alimony for her. He paid $360 outright and $40 a month during the pendency of the libel, and agreed to pay $1,000 when a decree nisi was granted and $1,000 more when the decree becomes absolute.

4 HURT IN $50,000 SOUTH NORWALK FIRE

South Norwalk, Ct., June 15.—Damage of between $50,000 and $75,000 was done by fire today which destroyed the Meeker Foundry here. Five buildings, one of which housed valuable moulds and patterns, were destroyed. Four firemen were buried by falling walls, but were rescued by their companions.

PAPPAS CASE GOES TO JURY

Judge Keating in the Superior Criminal Court today submitted to the jury the case of Paul Pappas, charged with murder in the first degree on December 26, 1919, of Mrs. Alice Arsenault. Six months later her body was found in the cellar of No. 517 Columbus avenue. No defence was made for Pappas. His counsel claimed the government had failed to prove its case.

PLEDGES JAPAN TO CUT ARMAMENT

Tokio, June 15 (By the Associated Press).—Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Japan's new Premier, today pledged the faith of Japan to co-operate with the other world powers for a further reduction of armaments, and the maintenance of the new era of peace which he said had been ushered in by the Washington conferences.

PANCHER RUBBER CO. FILES SUIT FOR MILLION

Suit for $1,000,000 was today filed in the U. S. Equity Court by the Pancher Rubber Manufacturing Company of Massachusetts against the Barrett Company of Maine and the Barrett Company of New Jersey. The plaintiffs claim they purchased from the defendants a large quantity of a commodity called "B. R. V." which is a substance used in the place of oil in the manufacture of rubber heels, and that the product was misrepresented. When they used it in the manufacture of heels amounting to $733,973.65, the heels could not be sold, the petition states.

AMERICAN KIDNAPED ON ULSTER BORDER

Belfast, June 15.—Robert Newry, representative of an American oil company, and two other persons were kidnaped on the Ulster border.

POLICE STONED IN LAWRENCE MILL RIOT

Lawrence, June 15.—The lull in the strike situation here was broken today by a riot at the Pacific Print Works on Merrimee street, South Lawrence.

The disturbance was marked by stone-throwing, fighting and other violence. It exceeded in fury any previous disturbance since the textile strike started thirteen weeks ago.

Five arrests were made—a larger number than in any other of the numerous disturbance caused by the strike. City Marshal Timothy J. O'Brien and his men were stoned.

Women were included in a mob of 600 pickets who lined up in front of the mill. Strike leaders had assigned them to what is known as the Pacific Mills sector.

Men and women going to work in the shipping department were stopped, and pummeled while women pickets shrieked invective at the workers attempting to enter the mills.

According to the police, plans for

SAYS BANK INTO WHICH HE BOUGHT PAID ITS DEBTS IN FULL

"There was a tremendous bank scandal. Banks in New York and Brooklyn were under fire. I knew that the Hamilton National was solvent and felt that I could reorganize the property and save it from the attack which was being made against Morse and Heinze. Their stock holdings were nominal.

"Three days after I took over the bank the panic of 1907 became so great that I sought the advice of J. P. Morgan and James Speyer. We went over the situation in Mr. Morgan's library. It was on their advice that I acted immediately to close the bank and protect the assets. I retained James M. Gifford as counsel to rehabilitate the bank and had the assurance of the Attorney-General that we would be permitted to proceed without a receivership.

FOUGHT THE MOVE.

"The Attorney-General lied.

"On October 23, 1907, he secretly slipped a temporary receiver into this institution, which he proceeded to declare insolvent. A receiver's fees are fat fees. The Attorney-General installed his own assistant as receiver.

"I retained Alton B. Parker to fight the move. The Attorney-General's attack was not launched without charges against me. Depositors' meetings were called, at which I was denounced, in churches and public halls. I attended every meeting myself. I was hissed at many of them, such was the feeling that had been stirred up, but I answered questions, told the truth, and never left a hall without the confidence and enthusiastic support of those depositors.

"The Supreme Court held the Attorney-General to be in error two months later. Justice Betts at Kingston ruled that the receivership should get out and the property turned over to me as president, to open the doors.

"That day the depositors marched through the streets, headed by a brass band, to my home. They presented me with a set of engrossed resolutions thanking me for making the fight that cut a receiver's fees from a possible half million dollars to $20,000, and promised them 100 cents on the dollar.

"And they did get their money. One hundred cents on the dollar to the depositors. One hundred cents on the dollar to the stockholders. It is my proud boast today that not one person has ever lost a single dollar through investing in concerns of mine.

"MADE GREAT MISTAKE."

"But here is where I made one great mistake. I had been villified by the Attorney-General of New York.

"I met him one day in the Belmont Hotel. His name was W. Schuyler Jackson. I said to him, Jackson, you've tried to ruin me. Now it is my turn and God help you. I'm after you."

"And I was. I sought to have this man, punished for conspiracy to wreck the bank. I exposed his record, which was unsavory. I forced his own deputy to testify before the Grand Jury that the attorney-general looked to him for half the receiver's fees. I had another of his deputies indicted for attempted extortion. I hurt several prominent people, both in his office and in the district attorney's office.

"It was then that the attorney-general turned on me. I was indicted. It had been discovered that my account at the bank had been overdrawn ONE DAY. The amount was nominal. It was not charged that I had checked out more money than I had no deposit in the bank. But, in my absence, a draft on my account had come in and been paid. That was the heinous charge brought to put me in the penitentiary. The banks had failed. Other banks had failed and they were gunning for any banker to salve an outraged public. I had dared to fight an attorney-general and was fair game.

"There was another charge that I had indorsed a loan of $4,000, from which I benefited without the approval of the board of directors. I might say that the collateral on that loan was sold by the receiver for $24,000. With me was indicted E. R. Thomas. The indictment was quashed. The indictment against me was allowed to sleep for three years.

"Then came another banking panic in New York. In 1910 the Carnegie Trust Bank crashed. The Mechanics and Traders closed. Another great banking panic hit New York. A goat was necessary. I had been pressing my charges against the Attorney-General. He looked up the old indictment, took over the duties of the District-Attorney, and started after me.

"I looked upon the trial as a joke, but I did not know the soreness of public depositors who had lost money in other banks. To my amazement the jury, after listening to a five hours' plea by an able assistant prosecutor, returned a verdict of guilty.

ASKED FOR REVERSAL.

"Next morning the jury went to the judge and demanded that the verdict be rescinded. The most unusual scene in the history of American jurisprudence took place when they pleaded with the judge to alter their own verdict. It was too late. But clemency was asked by that same jury and I received some clemency after sentence was pronounced.

"That's all except for the blackmail.

"My friends stuck with me. The blackmailers stuck also. Not a month has passed but some one, inspired with the idea that I was game for blackmail, has threatened me with exposure.

"Go to it," has been my answer.

"I've never tried to live down a past. But I've never tried to boast of it. Sometimes I've been amused at the whisperings of certain persons at social affairs. All of my friends and associates know it. I've had scores of calls today from people I hardly knew, sympathizing with me.

"HAS NEVER FALLEN."

"But I never fell for a blackmailer. When a month would pass without a request for blackmail I've wondered. I'm amazed at the number. As soon as one blackmailer finds there's no chance to expose what I've never tried to hide a new one pops up. They come from all classes and all walks of life.

"Now as to my life in Boston.

"I came here because I found a great business opportunity. I did not emerge from prison to go to work as a $35 clerk, as some people would have you think.

LEARNED BOSTON METHODS.

"It has been said that I worked in the Prudential Trust Company which closed about a year and a half ago. I did. I wanted to learn the ways of baking in Boston—to get in touch with the methods and the people. I refused to take one cent of salary. For I was going to school. I refused to be an officer. I left it two years ago.

"I am not the president of the American Discount Company. I am not an officer. I am not an officer or director of any corporation. No person has ever lost a dollar through investment with me and no person has ever gouged a dollar by blackmail. I am glad to make this statement. Perhaps I'll be permitted to live in peace."

A number of suits filed in the Superior Court name Montgomery as defendant.

One filed some time ago, by Richard B. Constantine, charges that W. Robert Montgomery of the Buckminster Hotel "fraudulently concealed information of importance" to the plaintiff during the formation of the American Discount Company. No. 40 Court street. In this suit Constantino says that the defendant is "sometimes known as William B. Montgomery."

A. Johnson, Inc., sued Mr. Montgomery under the name of W. Robert Montgomery for $800, alleged to be due on a "wedding outfit" which is claimed Mr. Montgomery ordered and then, learning he could be executed, cancelled.

Under the name of Robert Montgomery the financier is defendant in a suit filed by the Jean B. Le Mieux Compagnie of Boston, a dressmaking concern, which claims damages for Montgomery's alleged failure to complete the purchase of $500 worth of stock in the company, he is alleged to have subscribed for.

In this suit the deputy sheriff is directed to serve the papers at the office of the American Discount Company.

Prisoner Has Phone to Deny Rumor He Is Free

Camden, N. J., June 15.—Folks who hear that Maurice Hertz isn't serving his term in county jail for complicity in smuggling in $50,000 worth of rum from the Bahamas, can easily spike the rumor.

Sheriff Match announced today that because of the prevalence of such stories, he had had a telephone installed in Hertz's cell. Anyone who doesn't believe Hertz is there can call him up and ask him.

BAR STRIKERS FROM STREETS IN PAWTUXET

Providence, R. I., June 15.—National Guard troops on strike duty in Pawtuxet Valley villages, where several textile mills have reopened, today put into effect a rule under which all persons except mill employes are forbidden the use of the streets between the hours of 6 and 7 in the morning.

The rule, it is said, was designed to prevent strike sympathizers from interfering with those going to work in the mills.

The streets in the vicinity of the mills today were deserted, except for what workers went to the plants and for the heavy detail of troops patrolling the district.

GIRL WHO SAYS POLICE INVADED HER HOME

JEANETTE BRASSARD

She declares that for months she has been pursued and spied upon by policemen seeking leased furniture which they charged she concealed. She claims they broke into her bedroom at No. 1742 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, without a search warrant and awakened her by poking a flashlight in her face.

FIGHT TO BAR BOOZE ON U. S. SHIPS

Paris, June 15.—"If the American Shipping Board prohibited the sale of alcoholic beverages on their liners they would lose 75 per cent. of their passenger traffic," said a representative of the board here today.

Washington, June 15.—Definite steps through legislation to stop the sale of liquor upon American ships were started today through presentation by Representative Bankhead of Alabama of an amendment to the merchant marine bill which would cut off the Government aid provided in the measure for any ship carrying intoxicating liquors or beverages.

The Alabama representative offered his amendment at a meeting of the House Merchant Marine Committee, of which he is a member, called to take final action on the merchant marine bill.

Considerable doubt was expressed, however that the amendment would be accepted, as the indications were that the majority members of the committee would vote to report the bill as framed by a sub-committee.

The Bankhead amendment would provide "that no part of the money herein appropriated shall be used for the payment of compensation to the owner of any vessel upon which any liquors or beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol by volume are stored, sold, kept for sale, offered for sale or other disposition within or without the territorial waters of the United States."

High Treasury officials in discussing the matter today said that although Prohibition Commissioner Haynes had not submitted to Secretary Mellon a request that Mr. Daugherty be asked to review the ruling of former acting Attorney-General Frierson, holding the selling of liquor on American ships to be illegal, Secretary Mellon was ready to forward such a request if it came from Mr. Haynes.

Mr. Haynes was understood to be considering the need of a new ruling by the Justice Department in order to harmonize the difference of opinion between Mr. Frierson's ruling and the stand taken by General Counsel Schlosse of the Shipping Board that liquor could be sold lawfully on government vessels outside the three-mile limit.

Meanwhile officials said the Treasury and the prohibition unit would maintain its position that in view of the existing difference of opinion it would await court action or a new Justice Department interpretation of the law before deciding upon its policy in the situation.

Continuation of the policy of selling liquor aboard American ships "justifies the charge that Uncle Sam is engaged in bootlegging" Representative Cooper of Ohio declared today in a statement announcing he would support the amendment to the ship subsidy bill to stop it.

Attorney-General Daugherty will be asked for a new ruling on the question of the sale of liquor on Shipping Board vessels, it was indicated today at the treasury.

Violates Constitution, Says Cherrington

Westerville, Ohio, June 15.—The attitude of the United States Shipping Board in regard to the sale of intoxicants on vessels operating under the American flag was sharply criticised in a statement today by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the world league against alcoholism and general manager of publications of the Anti-Saloon League.

"American vessels outside the three-mile limit are either American territory or they are not," said Dr. Cherrington. "If not, what territory are they? If they are American territory, the Eighteenth Amendment applies to them the same as to any other American territory.

"If the Volstead act does not apply to ships operating under the direct control of the United States government, Congress should pass an act making it apply.

"There are two vital questions involved in the attitude of the United States Shipping Board as announced in the newspapers as coming from Chairman Lasker.

"The United States government cannot expect foreign governments to respect the Constitution of the United States if the United States government itself does not respect the Constitution.

"If the vessels operating under the United States Shipping Board are not subject to that portion of the United States Constitution known as the eighteenth amendment, how can such vessels invoke the protection guaranteed under other article of the Constitution?"

$4,000 IN GEMS ARE STOLEN FROM STORE

A tray of gems, including several diamonds valued at $4,600, was stolen from the jewelry department of one of Boston's largest department stores, it became known today.

The theft was made by two men and a woman, fashionably garbed. They viewed a large assortment of stones, set and unset, then decided not to make a purchase and left the store.

When the clerk checked up the trays he found one missing.

He reported the theft and detectives from the Stores Mutual Detective Association started an investigation. Police were notified and a description of the trio, immediately sent broadcast.

Just how the tray was smuggled away is a mystery.

"They seemed well bred and knew stones," said the clerk today. "The woman was very good-looking and very courteous. It was a pleasure to wait upon them. I was stunned to discover after they had gone that an entire tray of gems had disappeared."

All of the stones taken were set in rings. The diamonds were of fair size and good stones.

MAY ASK HIGHER P. O. BONDS HERE

Investigation of the amount of bonds which postal employes who handle money are under began today with a view of increasing the amount of bonds in proportion to the amount of money handled.

It is believed this investigation is due to the disappearance of Thomas F. Murray, in charge of the North postal station money order division, whose accounts are said to be short $8,800.

Postmaster Fuller, who is out of town today, will be informed of the result of the investigation. Assistant Postmaster William B. Hurley could be discuss the matter today.

Postal employes who are bonded have to pay the premium.

TO RAISE MILLION FOR THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL

An endowment fund of $1,000,000 is to be raised to carry on the work of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge.

The campaign for raising the funds will begin immediately. It will be under the direction of Bishop Lawrence and B. Preston Clark of the faculty.

GIRL PROTESTS "KU KLUX" POLICE

Awakened from her sleep at 3 o'clock in the morning by a searchlight flashing in her eyes, Miss Jeanette Brassard of No. 1742 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, looked up to find two men leaning over her bed.

They proved to be police officers who then served a warrant charging her with concealing leased furniture.

"The doors were locked and the windows secured before I went to sleep," Miss Brassard told a reporter. "The men got in by force.

"I have been pursued by these Ku Klux Klan police officers for months. They have bothered me night and day until I am afraid to go to sleep here. I am living at a hotel.

"Weird noises at my door caused me to move here from another section of Brighton. The noises followed me here and, finally, summoning up courage, I investigated. I opened the door and three plain clothes men almost fell through the entrance. They had been listening, for what I can't imagine.

"The warrant proved to be a charge against me for concealing leased property. I didn't conceal it. It was in this house until last Saturday, when seven officers backed the patrol wagon up to the door and took it away to the police station. It is there yet. I was sitting on it following my arrest. I can't understand why they should use the police wagon to take away furniture."

Three of the officers who came when the furniture was moved are the same men that have bothered Miss Brassard for months, she says.

At police headquarters, officials said they had never heard of such a procedure as that which Miss Brassard claims took place. Officers do not usually serve such warrants at that time of the morning and under those conditions, they said.

At the Brighton station, the lieutenant in charge told the reporter that a warrant had been served. That the police had a legal right to serve it, that they had a search warrant and that he knew nothing of the manner in which the officer served it.

FREED IN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Francois R. Udon de Beaulin, No. 117 Broadway, Everett, arrested following the running down and killing of seven-year-old Henry O'Donnell of Lexington street, Charlestown, was discharged in the Charlestown Court today. Clerk Mark E. Smith refused to grant a warrant charging manslaughter.

RUM MOTORBOAT SOLD AT SALEM FOR $430

Salem, June 8.—The motorboat Wilkin II., seized on February 22 at Collins' Cove by Federal prohibition agents, with a cargo of liquor valued at $70,000, was sold today at public auction by order of the United States District Court for $430. The purchaser was Marion J. Cooney of Gloucester.

TROTTER'S WIFE ACCUSES HIM OF BEING FATHER OF GRL'S CHILD

'A VISION,' PREACHER DECLARES'

Famous Evangelist Claims as Defence That Wife Who Seeks Divorce Is Insane

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 15.—A "vision," that's what Mel Trotter, famous Evangelist head of the Rescue Mission here, says caused his wife to believe him the father of another woman's child.

The defence in the case in which Mrs. Lottie M. Trotter is asking a divorce from her Evangelist-husband will contend that the charges against him came from an answer to a prayer.

Trotter's estate, of which much of the battle is being waged, is over the $25,000 mark, it is claimed by Mrs. Trotter.

The Evangelist appeared in court today still smiling and apparently at ease. His friends of the City Rescue Gospel Mission packe the court-room to hear from new witnesses the testimony that he was the father of his secretary's child.

Mrs. Trotter, in her suit, charged Trotter with cruelty. In his answer Mr. Trotter alleges his wife is insane; that she had lost all affection for him, and that she had treated him in a cruel and vicious manner.

Trotter's attorney, Charles Warren said the defence was satisfied the way the trial was progressing, but that when their time came they would prove to the satisfaction of the court the charges brought against Mr. Trotter—one in particular—his being the father of Florence Moody's baby in 1917—are false.

Miss Rose Rynhardt, testified she had had two conversations with Mr. Trotter, in which he mentioned Mrs. Trotter's mental condition. She stated, she requested Mr. Trotter to allow his wife to make a trip to Colorado with her. He refused to let the wife go, she declared, because of her alleged weakened condition.

A mysterious "Mr." was responsible for one of the Trotter's quarrels with his wife, Miss Kennis Sorenson, maid in the Trotter home, declared.

On cross-examination she denied that Mrs. Trotter told the husband to go and meet his own "question able" woman, when Mr. Trotter is said to have asked her to accompany him to meet "Bob."

NEWTON GIRL ATHLETE TO WED HARVARD STAR

An "athletic romance" will culminate at Old Orchard, Me., today in the marriage of Lucia Doyle of Newton, Boston Normal School athlete, and Roscoe W. Fitts, noted Harvard football star.

Families of the couple are summering in Maine and both bride and groom will return to their respective educational institutions in the Fall.

Miss Fitts began his athletic career as a member of a crack "Y" team and is now prominent in Harvard track, basketball and football. Miss Doyle is captain of the Normal School basketball team.

Want a New Automobile?

Then sell your used car. Do you know there are many people whose first automobile is a good used car of their favorite make?

This creates a clientele for used automobiles which makes it easy for any man wishing a new car to dispose of his old one and apply the amount realized on his new purchase.

The used car must be in good shape and be guaranteed to give adequate service. In which case it is no trouble at all to dispose of. The well-known market in Boston for good used automobiles is the "Automobile Exchange" columns of The American. Describe your car, give its make, say where and when it can be seen and demonstrated and a sale will be quickly consummated after the ad is published in

Flapper Makes Fast Time in Race for Chorus Girl's Job, but Quits After Third Down

She's Only the 85th in Line, But She Gets a Lesson from Handsome Jack of the Footlights.

By THE FLAPPER.

"Wanted, 200 chorus girls for a New York production. Experience unnecessary. Thirty dollars a week. Costumes and fare paid. Jack Thomas, 295 Huntington avenue."

Well, flaps, you should've seen me streak up Huntington avenue after that job! If they'd said: "Wanted, taster in a candy factory," I couldn't've made better time. If there'd only been a banana cart in my way I would've looked like the chase scene in a Charlie Chaplin flicker-photo.

But I got there—in time to be eighty-ninth in line. And after all my rush an' everything, there was nothin' to do but stand in line an' let my heels run over. I began to feel sorry about tipping over the old man in the wheel chair.

THINK OF MAUDE ADAMS.

"If my mother knew I was going on the stage—she'd be up on her ear," Ruth Kelly, of Dorchester, was saying.

"Oh, I don't know," Miss Ruth Rohan, ditto of Dorchester, put in, "there are some ladies on the stage. Look at Maude Adams."

"Have you ever been on the stage before?" I asked Miss Rohan.

"Once—in Dorchester," she answered. "I was in a minstrel show. Back row—but that's better than nothing."

"I was on the stage once," piped a plump Dumb Dora in the rear of the line. "I was in a pie eating contest on try-out night."

"You look as if you'd won," I said.

But before she had time to slap me back, Mr. Jack Thomas, snappy dresser on an' off, flat-wheeled into his Jazz foundry.

"Hy, hy," he said, doing a few little running steps, "look what a lot of darlings the wind blew in. Won't you all have chairs or something while I change to my dancing pumps?" In a wink or two he looked winged into our midst again.

TAKES THE NAMES.

"My, my," he said, pausing on a difficult step—"I used to get a hand for that on the Pantages circuit. Don't you know art when you see it?"

Mr. Thomas took names and addresses. Those he claimed past experience were told to come back in exactly when they would be booked for Broadway. The others were retained for a dancing lesson. It was then that Handsome Jack of the foot-lights told us that the lessons would be 50 cents each, and would be held twice a week until we could dance without jarring our fillings out of our teeth. At that time, it would be only a matter of moments until Zeigfeld snapped us up.

June, he knew that his heart beat on the correct side, Jack was offering the first lesson as a gift.

"Just a get-together and get-acquainted lesson," he smiled. "Next week we'll get down to business."

The first thing Mr. Thomas did was to line us all up on one side of the dancing arena. Then he told us to keep our eyes peeled while he tore off a few simple steps.

DANCES AND TALKS

The boy danced well. As he danced he talked—a bit breathlessly, but earnestly.

"This is a bit I did in Lew Fields' mammoth show in Columbus, Ohio—I was one of the end men—I come in singing:

"Oh, I'd like to hang my union suit on the Mason-Dixon line . . ." next I do this step—knocked 'em out of their seats in Indianapolis—then I finish with this dance twist—brings down the house—then—"

Mr. Thomas stopped and dusted his brow with a silk handkerchief with views of Los Angeles on it and paused for breath. In a moment he resumed:

"Then I got a rag that goes this way—I say, 'Mister Interlocator,' an' Lew Fields says, 'Yes, Jack, what is it?' an' I say, 'Have you seen Jemima?' an' he says, 'No, Jack, Jemima who?' an' I say, 'Jemima sittin' here next to you!' Oh, it's a knock-out. I have 'em laughin' so hard they hafta send for the pulmotors.

THEY'RE RECOVERS.

"Now," he said brightly, when he had recovered from his fit of laughing," let's all do those steps. One, two, three—start! Da dum, da dum, da dum—that's right, pick yourselves up girls an' try it again."

When I had gone down for the count the third time in one round, I began to think my place was in the home.

"Say, Mr. Thomas," I said, interrupting the dancing lesson, "Jus' a minute—may I ask a question?"

"I so say," grinned Jack. "That's what I'm here for—ask away!"

"Well, you know Hiawatha?"

"Hiawatha who?" asked Jack.

"Hiawatha nut to come up here on a hot day," I said. "Where's my hat!"

the disturbance were made by committees of the United Textile Workers and the One Big Union last night. There are 22,000 men and women out of work. It is said the strikers are approaching desperation as their funds give out.

BARRAGE OF STONES.

City Marshal O'Brien and several of his men appeared on the scene when the fighting began. Pickets were tripping up the workers and throwing stones when the police arrived.

The officers were greeted with a barrage of stones

Marshal O'Brien was making an arrest when one of the pickets threw a stone which narrowly escaped striking him in the head. Corporation Detective John Murphy arrested Jargo Grandino. According to Assistant Marshal Carl Fitzpatrick, Grandino is the man who threw the stone at O'Brien.

Pickets attempted to rescue others who were arrested, but were driven off by the police. Mariano Mora was arrested, charged with interfering with an officer. Hadechor Torosian was charged with creating a disturbance; Annis Zurifian and Salvatore Brocato were charged with assault.

All five were arraigned before Judge Jeremiah J. Mahoney in the District Court at Lawrence.

DISPERSED IN HALF-HOUR.

It took more than half an hour's work on the part of the police before the crowd was dispersed.

The cases were continued until tomorrow because Attorney John T. S. Mahoney, counsel for the One Big Union, which is defending the men, is engaged in fighting the injunction proceedings brought by the Plymouth Mills in an effort to prevent picketing.

Four witnesses testified before Master James Sanury of Lynn today in the injunction case. They were: Marion Hardy, Mrs. Margaret Bryce, Thomas Fox and Albert Mortimer, all employes of the Plymouth Mill.

Antonio Sicurelli is under arrest, charged with assault, as the result of an alleged attempt to slash a strike-breaker with a razor while doing duty on the picket lines near the Pacific works.

Prompt action by the authorities prevented trouble. His alleged blow missed its mark.

R. I. Plants Open, but Are Unable to Operate

Pawtucket, R. I., June 15.—Four cotton mills and a bleachery, all controlled by Goddard Brothers, were opened today in the Blackstone Valley textile strike area, but officials of the United Textile Workers of America asserted that few workers reported.

Officials of the company said later that not more than half a dozen persons had reported for work at all the plants and that no attempt was made to operate any department.

Pickets were out in force at two mills and the bleachery in Lonsdale, as well as at the mills in Berkeley and Ashton, but deputy sheriffs permitted only five pickets near each gate. There was no disturbance.

BOSTON BROKER ENDS HIS LIFE

Miss Barrett, the dead broker's stenographer, found the door of the office open when she reported for work, and at once noticed that a small mirror usually hanging on the wash stand was missing. Looking for it, she went into the inner office partitioned off from the main room.

There she stumbled over the body of her employer. Mr. Twombly was lying on his back, legs extended, arms flung sprawling. The mirror was lying beside the body, and close by was a revolver.

Screaming, Miss Barrett rushed out into the street, where she found Patrolman Stanley Simpson of the traffic squad, to whom she reported her find. He took charge of the case.

Fifteen minutes before Miss Barrett entered the office two persons had seen the broker alive. One was a messenge boy who delivered a telegram and the other was one of the elevator men in the building. Neither noticed anything unusual in the appearance of the broker.

About five minutes before his body was found another messenger boy called to deliver a telegram to Mr. Twombly. This boy found the door of the outer office locked and dropped the usual notice in the slot of the door.

As he was waiting for an elevator the door opened and Mr. Twombly appeared and asked for the telegram, which the boy delivered.

Medical Examiner George B. Magrath took charge of the body.

When Mrs. Twombly was notified of the death of her husband, she collapsed. A son by a former marriage, now at Halifax, Mass., was notified of the death of his step father and the condition of his mother.

Kenneth T. Blodgett, of No. 148 State street, a personal friend of Mr. Twombly, went out to Mrs. Twombly's home as soon as he heard of the death of his friend, but by the time he reached the Brookline home Mrs. Twombly was in such a state that a physician had to be called in to quiet her.

Mr. Twombly is said by his friends to have been prominent in Masonic circles and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Medical Examiner Magrath said there was reason to believe business worries had driven the broker to end his life. He said he would perform an autopsy.

DEAD MAN HAD $275 PLASTERED TO HIS BODY

Marlboro, June 15.—Medical Examiner H. H. Braley of Concord, while examining today the body of an unidentified man killed June 3 on the railroad, discovered a swelling near the left groin. Upon examination he found it to be a flesh-colored strip of gutta percha beneath which was a roll of $275 in bills.

Ask for Wine Card Before Sailing on U. S. Steamers

By International News Service.

London, June 15.—The question of the sale of liquor on ships flying the United States flag came in for international attention today. Commenting on the speech of Congressman Gallivan of Massachusetts a shipping official said:

"Nearly all men and some women demand to see the wine card before they will book passage for New York on American Shipping Board liners. They want to be sure they are going to get what they want."

FIRE ON SWIMMER IN RUM CHASE

Burlington Vt., June 15.—A Larrasca, an alleged rum runner of Ware, Mass., was captured as he was swimming near Sandbar Bridge. With his two brothers he was crossing the bridge ten miles from the Canadian line. They were stopped by "dry" officers J. M. Kelley and Frank Eaton, State's Attorney Homer Keeler and Frank Abbott. Two of the brothers got into the car with an officer and A. Larrasca in a car with the other officer. The prisoner drove and headed the machine into the lake and jumped into the lake.

The officers fired several shots, but he went out further. Finally Eaton and Abbot went after him in a boat and got him after a stiff battle in which they were obliged to beat him.

HARDING UNABLE TO COME TO HARVARD

Washington, June 15.—President Harding, who has had under consideration for several days invitations to go to New England next week to attend the Yale and Harvard Commencement exercises, informed Senator Lodge of Massachusetts today that he believed it would be impossible for him to make the trip. The Senator called on behalf of the two universities to urge the President's acceptance of the invitations.

WASHINGTON STOPS SALE OF ARMY CRAFT HERE

The sale of the eight army vessels lying at anchor at army base, South Boston, was suddenly stopped today by an order from Washington. Captain Prout who has this matter in charge, was unable to give any reason for this action, although the sale of the vessels was almost completed to a party who desired the use of the vessels for excursion parties on the Great Lakes.

START HARBOUR CASE INQUEST

to a Boston American reporter that Miss Harbour had been infatuated with him and that he believed she had killed herself because their relations had been broken off.

Another witness was Dr. Abraham Rifkin, who was called in by Ayer when the girl was found dying, and Helen Hale, housekeeper at the hotel, who had the door to the girl's room forced when her friends and hotel officials became suspicious at her length of silence.

AMAZING ROMANCE.

The disclosures following the death of the young girl revealed an amazing romance.

Miss Harbour was the daughter of Jefferson Lee Harbour, lecturer and writer of No. 3 Bowdoin avenue, Dorchester. Her brother, Homer H. Harbour is a teacher at a Dorchester school.

The girl herself was well educated and a skilled stenographer. Ayer, the man in the case was married when he met the girl. For months their friendship strengthened. The man's personality completely absorbed that of the girl. She adored him and hoped against hope that the time would come when she might become his wife.

Then a few weeks before her death trouble came. Ayer, it was said, became weary of their relations. The girl fretted, worried, became desperate.

FINAL PARTING.

According to Mrs. Margaret Buck, No. 19 Fairbanks street, Brookline, where the pair met by appointment, the final snapping of the tie came three days before the girl's tragic ending.

According to Mrs. Buck, Miss Harbour told Ayer that she could not sleep and he bought her a small phial of veronal to quiet her nerves.

He is alleged to have told Mrs. Buck that he intended to divorce his wife and to marry the girl.

Mrs. Ayer has declared that she knew of Miss Harbour's infatuation for her husband. "But I'll stick to Bert to the end," she said. "Alice Harbour knew that Bert was married. She is alone to blame."

Mrs. Buck, lifelong friend of Miss Harbour, declares that not only had Ayer taken the girl's love but he had $500 of her money as well. Miss Harbour's brothers declare that this statement is true.

POINCARE LEAVES FOR ENGLAND TOMORROW

Paris, June 15.—Premier Poincare will leave for London tomorrow. He will lunch with Prime Minister Lloyd George on Monday, at which time the Premiers will discuss the general political situation.

BIG UNSECURED LOAN MADE BY HANOVER

New York, June 15.—The disclosure that the Hanover Trust Company of Boston controlled the Conway Clothing Company of this city, manufacturers of men's clothing, and loaned the clothing concern more than $80,000 without receiving any sort of security, was made by witnesses presented by L. Gainsburg, chief counsel to Siff Brothers Company, wholesale clothiers, of No. 71 Fifth avenue, to Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and a jury.

The action, which is on trial today, was brought by the trust company to recover on $18,000 worth of trade acceptances given by Siff Brothers to the Conway Company and by the latter turned over to the Boston financial institution.

Mr. Gainsburg resisted payment of the acceptance on the ground that they represented a part of the payment for 16,000 suits contracted for by the Siff concern with the Conway concern, to be delivered in installments, acceptances only to be delivered when delivery of the suits should be completed.

By witnesses Mr. Gainsburg showed that after a part of the suits were delivered, Mr. Conway suggested to one of the Siff brothers that acceptances for such part be made out in order that the trust company, which was the financial backer of the Conway Company, might have something to show for the goods sold.

SOLD REST OF ORDER.

The acceptances were delivered to the Conway Company, and then, according to the evidence, no more suits were sent to Siff Brothers, but the balance of the order, witnesses testified, was sold to other houses at an advanced price.

Mr. Gainsburg claimed a set-off to the trust company's demand to the amount of $13,000, which he said represented the actual money damage sustained by the Siff brothers through the alleged failure of the Conway Company to carry out its contract.

The books of the Conway Company produced before Justice Cohalan and the jury showed that the clothing corporation had a paid in capital of $100,000. President Conway declared on the witness stand, however, that neither he nor Henry W. Chmielinski, who is president of the trust company and was vice-president of the clothing company until it went into bankruptcy recently, nor W. S. McNary, treasurer of both corporations, ever paid a dollar on the capital of the Conway Company. Mr. Conway testified also that the large loans made to the clothing company were made by officers of the Boston financial institution out of its funds.

OWE HANOVER $237,000.

Mr. Gainsburg also brought out at the trial that the liabilities of the Conway Company are $250,000, of which $237,000 is owing to the Hanover Trust Company, while it has assets of but $6,000.

Mr. Gainsburg argued that the trust company was chargeable with knowledge of the full details of the Siff-Conway contract inasmuch as the trust company and the Conway concern had "interlocking officers and directors."

MRS. CHAMBERS PLANS TO SUE PROCESS SERVER

New York, June 15.—Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the famous author, is preparing to bring suit against a process server who surprised her in her bath in her local residence the other day. Mrs. Chambers fled down the hall, while the servant hurled the paper after her. When he had gone, she claims, she missed a $2,500 necklace. She later caused his arrest.

TROOPS ON GUARD AT MINES IN UTAH

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 15.—Two hundred National Guardsmen were on duty today to enforce, in the coal strike area of Utah, Governor Mabey's proclamation of martial law, which was issued yesterday after a mine guard had been killed and a mine official wounded by men who fired on a train near Castle Gate.

Major Elmer Johnson, in command, was given authority to close all mines if necessary to restore order. The train reported ambushed yesterday bore non-union miners.

FULLER'S CHAUFFEUR FOILS AUTO HOLDUP

Portsmouth, N. H., June 15.—The automobile of Lieutenant-Governor Fuller of Massachusetts was the object of an attempted holdup on Greenland road here. Mr. Fuller was nearby, in his Summer home, but was not in the car. His chauffeur, Roy Wing, the car's only occupant, "stepped on the gas" and foiled the highwaymen.

PRESS BARRED BY DUTCH AT THE HAGUE

By The Associated Press.

The Hague, June 15.—The conference which is to consider Russian affairs was called to order in the Peace Palace today by Dutch Foreign Minister H. A. Van Karnebeek. Sixty delegates, representing about thirty countries, were present.

All the sessions will be secret, the foreign minister announced. Even representatives of the world press were denied admission to the Peace Palace.

The newspaper insisted on entering the palace grounds, presenting their protest to the Dutch Foreign Minister, who refused to admit them to the opening session, and said they should not have been admitted to the palace grounds.

The visiting delegates appeared to be helpless. Many expressed annoyance over the attitude of the Dutch government.

The American correspondents called attention to the fact that it was an American who built the palace and that Americans did not expect such treatment on premises which Andrew Carnegie made possible.

Apparently overawed by the appearance of forty or fifty newspaper men and women, representing American, British, French, South American and various European journals, who refused to take any statements from subordinates, the foreign office attaches and policemen finally admitted the correspondents for an audience with Foreign Minister Van Karnebeek.

GRAPHIC ARTS MEN OFF TO WASHINGTON

The delegation from the Second Educational Graphic Arts Exposition left this morning on the Colonial Express for Washington, where they will meet President Harding and extend to him and Mrs. Harding an invitation to open the exposition which will be held in Mechanics Hall from August 28 to September 2. Clarence Meager of the Southgate Press, dressed to represent Benjamin Franklin, saw the delegates off and wished them success.

MAYO WINS A POINT ON BIGAMY CHARGE

New York, June 15.—Virginuis St. Julian Mayo, wealthy radiator manufacturer, convicted last month of bigamy, was granted a certificate of reasonable doubt today by Supreme Court Justice Martin. Pending appeal, his bail was fixed at $10,000.

Mayo was prosecuted on complaint of Mrs. Wilhelmina Meyer Mayo, whom he married in Brooklyn in 1904, while he was still the husband of Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo, to whom he had been married in Binghampton, N. T., twelve years before.

'WHO'S WHO' AT B. U. REVEALS SECRETS

The annual edition of "Who's Who" at the Boston University College of Liberal Arts is out.

Who is the prettiest girl? Who is the most charming. Who is the most versatile? Who is the class baby? Who is the "mayviest?"

All these questions and more which were weighing heavy on the minds of the girl and men students were answered by Mary Watson, the statistician, at the senior class day exercises held at Riverside.

That the College of Liberal Arts is not a flapper college for flappers was revealed by the results of the questionnaires. Not one vote was cast for the modern girl, the so-called flapper.

The results of the statistics are as follows: Ruth Mansfield of Dorchester, who has just passed her nineteenth birthday, was voted the class baby. She is the youngest senior at the College of Liberal Arts. Miss Mansfield is student correspondent of the university on a Boston paper.

Miss Adeline Allan of Ipswich was elected the prettiest, as well as the most charming girl. Miss Allan was president of Panpellenic, the organization composed of representatives of every sorority in the college.

SAY JEALOUSY LED TO KILLING OF BREWSTER

Robbery was not the motive which caused the death by murder of Station Agent Ralph W. Brewster of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Winchester.

Jealousy prompted the slaying.

The murderer is a citizen of Winchester.

The above facts, which tend to change completely the police investigation of the murder, represent the reasons why police officers of Winchester are today working in Pittsfield, N. H. If they are successful in getting the man upon whom suspicion has now fallen the result will astonish the natives of Winchester, it is hinted.

The profound conviction of the widow of the slain man, who again is about to become a mother, that Lawhorn did not commit the crime and that robbery was not the motive and additional information she supplied, is what caused Chief William H. McIntosh and Sergeant Thomas F. McCauley of Winchester to take the new tack in their search.

Leo M. Ballam, a private who was on duty with Lawhorn the night of the murder, is reported "absent without leave" from the Charlestown Navy Yard. It was he who swore that Lawhorn was on his post at the time the crime is said to have been committed.

District Attorney Saltonstall of Middlesex County has notified the Navy Department he will take to the United States courts the action of Colonel Marix of the Marine Corps in declining to allow Lawhorn to appear for investigation in the district attorney's office.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS TO STAY IN BRITISH ISLES

London, June 15.—Daylight saving time in Summer throughout the British Isles is made a permanent fixture through the passage by the House of Commons of the "Summertime bill." The measure, which was adopted by a vote of 207 to 26, is similar to that in effect in other European countries.

Shot 6 Times; "It Was All Right," Said Victim

New York, June 15.—"Oh, that was all right," exclaimed Clemente Fazoli, as he lay in Adams Street, Brooklyn, today, with six bullets in his body, fired by his "friend" Natali Sicca. He explained:

"It was Natali who did the shooting. He lives in Mulberry Street over by the river. Don't be too hard on him. You see my dad shot his father so it was only right that he should shoot me. I would like to speak to my son before I die, but that is all right, too."

Clemente was taken to the hospital in a dying condition.

SPORT DRESSES SUITS COATS

THE lure of the out-of-doors makes the choice of the sport frock, suit or coat one of the most important questions in the choosing of the summer costume. Our selection in dresses includes simple styles, and models that are stunning enough for many a formal occasion. For suits, three-piece effects, in smart tailored styles, with jackets which may be worn equally well with separate skirts. Gay colors or sombre shades, both are correct. And for coats, tweeds one thinks of first of all. Indeed this popular material has many appeals for sport and general use. In addition there are the Camel's Hair coats in rich brown or tan shades or effective tailored styles.

Drawn from Misses' Voile Dress, 16.50 — Drawn from Misses' Gingham Dress, 15.00 — Drawn from Women's Gingham Dress, 20.50 — Drawn from Women's Voile Dress, 15.75

Color, style, fine fabric, the features of fashion in the new summer dresses, unite to make Chandler & Co.'s selection as charming and complete an assortment as they have ever been able to assemble.

MONTHS ago our buyers began to plan for their summer dress business. First of all, materials had to be selected. Then the styles that were to be used had to be chosen, and the co-operation of manufacturers secured in order that the best effects might be obtained. The results fully justify the labor that has been expended, for never in Chandler & Co.'s hundred years of experience has a better selection of styles and values been brought together.

Color, of course, is prominent in dress fashions this summer—the color that is the most becoming being the style rule. There are all the blues, bright reds, greens, browns, tans. There is white, too—yellow and the soft pastel shades so effective in the voiles. Dotted materials such as voile and swiss—figured patterns—every material radiating coolness and charm. The styles are multitudinous, diversified as the tastes of many individuals—long panel styles, bouffant styles and quaint straight silhouettes. The trimmings include laces, embroideries, insets of contrasting material, crisp collars of organdie, pique or linen, hand fagotting, rickrack and clever uses of self material.

All the materials are the best that may be obtained for dresses to sell at our interesting prices. All the styles show the attractive lines that fashion centers advocate for the summer season. Values are evident to anyone who looks critically at whatever we have to offer; and variety goes without saying when such an enormous quantity of dresses are gathered together.

MORE ANSWERS TO EDISON'S PUZZLERS

From Catherine F. Reinhardt, No. 38 Richfield Street, Dorchester:

No. 1—Would put in twenty-five cents because my chances of drawing another eight or another pair (which would give me a full house or four of a kind) are greater than the likelihood of his holding either of these.

No. 2—Eleven hours.

No. 3—Would make it my business to arrange to be in a position to interview the manufacturer in regard to the order in question, in the presence of his wife.

WOULD FLIP QUARTER.

From John Ericson, Fittsfield, N. H.:

No. 1—I'd flip a quarter and draw two cards, taking a chance of getting another eight or a pair.

No. 2—Five hours.

No. 3—Mind your own business.

From E. I. Whittemore, No. 89 Pentucet avenue, Edgewood, R. I.:

No. 1—I'd lay down my three eights, for if there was only fifty cents in the pot it would be a bad bet to pay a quarter to draw cards against a pat hand—especially against a stranger's.

No. 2—Thirteen hours.

No. 3—I would, of course let myself be seen by said customer, and call next day for the order. But I would NOT mention the episode of the night before.

No. 1—I do not play poker and I do not think Mr. Edison would hire a man who does.

No. 2—Fourth hour.

No. 3—I'd mind my own business, as any gentleman would do.

WORKED OUT BY FIGURES.

From Alfred E. Johnson, White River Junction, Vt.:

No. 1—Pass. Drawing two cards to three of a kind, the chance for the fourth is two in 47, for a full 3 in 46. Odds against me on a $10 capital.

No. 2—Six hours.

No. 3—Let the manufacturer see that I saw him, but I would never mention it to him or anyone else. I do not believe in a holding game.

From James Humphrey Jr., No. 9 Hartford Street, Boston:

No. 1—I'd call. Then, whatever the outcome, I'd quit the game forever.

No. 2—Four hours.

No. 3—Forgot it. Sell goods on their merit.

MIGHT BE BLUFFING.

From H. F. Jochim, No. 23 Carey Avenue, Revere:

No. 1—Call the quarter and draw cards because (a) I may get a full house or four eights; (b) with fifty cents in the pot the quarter risk is not to great and (c) he may be bluffing.

No. 2—Eight hours.

No. 3—Would act as though I had not seen him. Never mention it.

From F. Fitzgerald, No. 822 Summer street, Lynn:

No. 1—I'd throw down my hand. The percentage is too small.

No. 2—Ten hours.

No. 3—I'd keep on trying to get the order in a businesslike way, ignoring the incident.

$10 for Best Answers to 3 Questions in New Edison List

THE Boston American will pay $10 to the person sending in the best answers to these three Edison questions:

I.

YOU have $10 and are playing poker with a stranger. He holds a pat hand. You have three eights before the draw. There is 50 cents in the pot. He bets a quarter. What are you going to do, and why?

II.

SUPPOSE a certain low form of animal brought forth a single offspring once an hour, and that the offspring reproduced at the same rate as the parent, starting as soon as it was one hour old, how long would it take to get four in the fourth generation?

III.

YOU are trying to sell a big manufacturer who has an unusually jealous wife. You see him dining with a chorus girl. What would you do?

SON WINS HIS CONTEST OF FITCH WILL

The will, involving $500,000 to $100,000, of Benjamin Fitch of Lexington, retired Faneuil Hall market man, was broken today. A jury in the East Cambridge Court found Fitch was unduly influenced in making the will by his second wife, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Fitch, and Miss Mary A. Fitch, a daughter.

The will was contested by the son, Arthur S. Fitch of Lexington, who claimed his father was of unsound mind and was influenced by his stepmother and sister. The jury found that Fitch was sane.

In the will the son was cut off with an income of $5,000 a year, the bulk of the property going to Mrs. Fitch, the stepmother.

WAR ROMANCE ENDS IN SUIT FOR $50,000

Pretty French Girl Accuses Former Mayor of Breach of Promise

New York, June 15.—A war romance that began in France ended with the arrest of former Major John L. Feeney, at No. 43 Exchange place, under an order obtained by Miss Catherine de Cathelineau, twenty-eight years old, a pretty Parisienne.

At the same time the girl filed a breach of promise action for $50,000, claiming she was jilted by Feeney for Miss Allison McBain, known as "the most beautiful debutante" of Shebrooke, Quebec.

According to sworn documents on file, the former army major and Miss de Cathelineau, said to be the daughter of a papal count, met at Vivy, France, in 1918.

When they fell in love, became engaged, and when the war was terminated, the girl alleges, Major Feeny sent her funds to come to America. Upon her arrival she was introduced as the man's fiancee to his relatives, she avers.

Last May his love cooled and Major Feeny told his war sweetheart that he loved Miss McBain and intended to marry her, and according to the papers on file, the marriage was celebrated in St. Thomas' Church.

Major Feeny was released in $2,500.

Everett Child Found Through Story in Boston American

ROYAL H. SYLVESTER.

ACCUSED PRIEST SANE, COURT INSTRUCTS JURY

Montreal, June 15.—Justice Monet, in court, characterized as a "veritable lie" the report that alienists had decided Adelard Delorme, ex-priest, was insane and should not be tried for slaying his brother, Raoul, and instructed the jury to ignore it.

'STOLEN' CHILD IS FOUND AT NEGRO'S HOME

Through a story printed in the Boston American, three-year-old Royal H. Sylvester of No. 20 Willis avenue, Everett, is back at home after having been secreted in the home of a negro family for several days.

The mother says that the child was taken there by the father.

An anonymous letter, written following the story in the Boston American, gave directions as to finding the youngster.

"Go to Seltons home at No. 6 Sunnyside avenue, Everett," the letter said. "Your child is there."

Accompanied by Sergeant Richardson of the Everett police, Mrs. Sylvester went to the home of Isaiah Selton at that address and found Royal. The family refused to give up the child and Mrs. Sylvester consulted her lawyer. A doctor was summoned and they went back to examine the boy.

"With my child in my arms again, nothing could ever get him away," Mrs. Sylvester said. "The people refused to let me go until my husband came back. Even my husband refused to let us go when he arrived and appealed to the police officer to give him little Royal. Sergeant Richardson told him that the child was in my arms, and that the law could not interfere. He also told Mr. Sylvester that he would not be allowed to touch me.

POPE PROTESTS ARREST OF PETROGRAD BISHOP

Warsaw, June 15 (By International News Service).—According to Polish newspapers today, the Vatican is making representations to the Russian Soviet government regarding the recent arrest of the archbishop of Petrograd.

AUTOISTS ARE READY FOR BIG OUTING

Everything is set for the great three days' outing of the Bay State Automobile Association at Pine Grove Springs Hotel, Lake Spofford, N. H., next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

More than fifty prizes have been donated for golf, tennis, baseball and other events. The value of these prizes is more than $1,000, and among the premiums are automobile tires, tubes and valuable accessories.

To reach Lake Spofford take the main route, Boston or Lowell, Nashua, Milton, Peterboro, Dublin to Keene, from Keene take the Brattleboro road to Lake Spofford. The distance is 105 miles.

A special prize will be awarded to the winner of the time arrival contest. This does not mean a speed contest. The winner of this gets the prize all by luck. A secret time is set by the committee and the one who comes nearest to this gets the prize.

There is no special starting time for Friday and the main fun begins Friday night, but there will be golf and sports for those arriving in time Friday.

The following committee has charge of the arrangements: Guy D. Niles, chairman of the Runs and Tours Committee, in general charge of the outing; Fred E. Stoaks, golf; A. T. Hart and Nelson James, baseball; F. A. Hinchcliffe, tennis, (he wields a mean racket himself), and Harold Barber and Russell Green, track and field events.

Parks His Auto in Street, Takes Nap; Is Fined $120

Brockton, June 15.—Napping in an automobile, parked in the middle of the street, is an expensive luxury, as Vernier Morgan, of Walnut street, Atlantic, can testify.

Morgan, facing District Court, was found guilty of drunkenness, operating a car while under the influence of liquor, and operating without tail or headlights. Fines aggregating $120 were imposed.

In default of payment, he was sent to jail.

Chief of Police Laughton said Morgan was found asleep in an auto in the middle of East Centre street, West Bridgewater.

ASK U. S. PROBE OF IMPORTERS' PROFITS

By International News Service.

Washington, June 15.—A federal investigation into alleged profiteering by American importers loomed today as a result of charges made in the Senate during debate on the tariff bill. A resolution calling on the Department of Justice to explain the failure to halt the alleged profiteering and directing an inquiry into the import trade, was before the Senate for action today.

It was introduced by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, after Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, charged importers with "perpetrating gross frauds" by making from 200 to 15,000 per cent gross profit on imported articles.

Although intended as a defense of tariffs placed on imported goods, McCumber's charges were used by Democratic opponents of the bill in contentions that the tariff bill would add to consumers' costs, which were already unjustly high.

Senator Underwood, Democrat, of Alabama, and Senator Walsh both jested importers in their alleged profiteering.

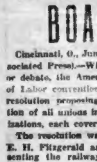
BAY STATE MAN ON A. F. OF L. BOARD

Cincinnati, O., June 15 (By the Associated Press).—Without opposition or debate, the American Federation of Labor convention today killed a resolution proposing an amalgamation of all unions into single organizations, each covering an industry.

The resolution was introduced by E. H. Fitzgerald and others representing the railway clerks.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 15.—The American Federation of Labor convention today appointed a special committee to consider all recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court adverse to labor and determine labor's plans for attacking them as "unjust."



James Duncan

The committee is composed of D. M. Jewell, head of the Railroad Workers Union; James Duncan of Quincy, Mass.; Matthew Woll, William Green, Frank Duffy, G. W. Perkins, John P. Frey, Benjamin Schlesinger, George Berry, T. V. McCullough, W. D. Mahon, John Voll, James Wilson, F. J. Flaherty and William D. Clark.

Jewell, in an address, said railroad union chiefs wouldn't lift a finger to prevent a strike of the 1,225,000 workers in shop craft and maintenance of ways. The decision of the workers will be compiled with.

Calls on Unions to Fight Fire With Fire

By the Associated Press.

Indianapolis, June 15.—Commenting upon the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of the Coronado Coal Company against the United Mine Workers of America, the United Mine Workers' Journal, official organ of the union, said today:

"If a labor union can be sued, as was decided by the United States Supreme Court in the Coronado case, then it can also sue. If a labor union can sue, then there is no good reason why it should not utilize the law and the courts for the protection of itself, its members and their welfare against oppression, damage or outrage. If the law and the courts afford a means by which union-busting employers may harass, torment and oppress unions and working people, then unions and working people should not hesitate to use the same weapons against that class of employers.

"If unions would fight such employers with their own kind of fire, it would not be long until the injunction process would be as unpopular with employers as it always has been and still is with employes."

CLOWNS CHEER 'SHUT-INS'

GEE, IT WAS GREAT—CIRCUS DAY AT THE HOSPITAL!

It's tough for young invalids to be laid up in a hospital in these rare June days, but today it was different when fun-makers from the circus showed up. It was out at the Children's Hospital, and the children will say it was one grand day. The clown is, who enjoyed it as much as the joyous youngsters, are, left to right: Ira Wilson, Irving Pollene and Felix Adler.

MORSE MOVES FOR SPECIAL APPEAL

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 15.—Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, his three sons and others charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States by means of war contracts today filed application to the District Court of Appeals for permission to make a special appeal from the district of the criminal division of the District of Columbia Supreme Court overruling demurrers to the indictments.

The application contended that the Morses should not be put to the expense of a trial under an indictment which they believe to be invalid because it charges the formation of a conspiracy to defraud through contracts when no such contracts were in existence.

The conspiracy, the appellants asserted, was alleged to deal with the manner in which certain contracts should be performed months before such contracts were made, and they asked the court to settle the law points in advance of a trial.

STATE PRIZES FOR ROADSIDE STANDS

The roadside fruit stand, made popular in the rural districts by the auto, is now recognized as a State industry. The State Department of Agriculture today decided to award annual prizes for the best displays of fruits by the roadside dealers. These awards will take the place of the prizes formerly given for the best window displays by grinders and wholesalers.

What's about the most unfortunate youngster possible?

The kid that's laid up in a hospital in the Summertime, when there's fishing, bathing and lots of other things doing, and school's closing.

What's more unfortunate than that?

The kid that's laid up in a hospital when the circus's in town. That's more than unfortunate.

So the Barnum-Bailey-Ringling fellows today did what Mahomet did to the mountain. The kids couldn't go to the circus, so the circus came to the kids. Right on the grounds of the Children's Hospital, came the clowns, the acrobats, the animals and all. Juvenile pulses beat fast, temperatures went up, but it didn't do any harm for it was caused by joy. Never an audience more appreciative, never a troupe more anxious to entertain and please. And it was one grand day.

BANS PERMIT FOR 27TH CEMETERY

Three hundreds residents of the West Roxbury district today visited City Hall to protest to Mayor Curley against issuance of a permit for another Jewish cemetery in that district. There are already twenty-six burying grounds in West Roxbury.

The crowd thronged the old aldermanic chamber and when the Mayor after listening to the protests announced that he would refuse the permit asked by the Mt. Lebanon Association the crowd broke out into a storm of applause.

"I shall veto this permit," said Mayor Curley, "because the Council has refused a public hearing to people who have invested their savings to establish homes, and so are entitled to protection."

FIRE SHOTS IN NEW DRUG ROUNDUP

A thrilling chase in which the "white squadron" of the local police and Federal narcotic agents chased an alleged drug pedlar and an addict through Charlestown streets, firing several shots, was the climax to one of the busiest days since the intensive campaign against drug agents and users began here.

Catching John White of Cambridge, they claim, in the act of passing morphine tablets to an addict, Detectives Caverly, Conway and Monahan—the "white squadron" of Boston police headquarters—and Agents Scannell and Voelker of the Federal Narcotic Bureau gave chase.

The fugitives fled from Chelsea street along the Navy Yard for half a mile. Spectators, collecting in swarms, made the chase difficult. But the crowd scattered when the officers drew revolvers and fired at the fleeing pair.

White was arraigned in the Charlestown District Court and held in default of $500 bail for the Grand Jury.

The addict, whose name will be withheld, will be sent away for treatment.

Dr. William J. Brown of No. 881 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, recently convicted of illegal surgery, following the death of Mrs. Margaret Savickas in Worcester City Hospital, and released in $10,000 bonds pending his appeal to the Supreme Court, was taken into custody charged with violating the drug laws. He pleaded guilty in Roxbury Court and was held in $1000.

Benjamin Fox of Astor street, who took a prescription given him by Dr. Brown to Hugnan's drug store, Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street, was held in the same amount, pleading not guilty.

In the Central Court David Press of No. 84 St. Botolph street, a fireman on the New Haven road, was held in $2,000 by Judge Dowd on four counts of forging and uttering prescriptions

Gas Kills Cambridge Woman

Mrs. Elizabeth Hayden, 42-year-old wife of David Hayden, No. 36 Hadley street, Cambridge, died after inhaling gas, in the bath room of her home. Relatives say that she had been despondent because of ill health.

MRS. FELLOWES IS BELLE OF LONDON SOCIETY

London, June 15.—The Honorable Mrs. Reginald Aliwyn Fellowes, who is the wife of the only surviving son and heir to the title of Lord and Lady de Ramsey, is considered one of the most beautiful women in British Society. At the recent court held by the King, she glied out by agason of her striking appearance and gorgeous gown. IVER OF BEER FLOWS THROUGH ONTARIO

By The Associated Press.

Windsor, Ont., June 15.—Fleets of trucks, piled high with cases of beer for export, are rolling in a steady stream over the road from Windsor to the docks of Petite Cote and Sandwich, while police officials stand by awaiting word to halt the close-packed caravan.

Within forty-eight hours, at least 5,000 cases have rolled by, watchers estimate, with consignment labels bearing such destinations as "Ohio" and "Cuba."

An amendment to the Ontario act, recently adopted, forbids the transportation of liquor for export over the highways of Ontario, dealers being required to ship by rail or boat. Enforcement of the amendment will not begin, however, until the Lieutenant-Governor signs the amendment.

Meantime, exporters are using their hours of grace in getting as much beer as possible to the docks of Sandwich and Petite Cote.

Ban Transporting Liquor Through United States

Washington, June 15.—Collectors of customs at border or seacoast ports will not be permitted to accept any transportation and exportation entries for intoxicating liquors arriving after midnight tonight, regardless of date of shipment, the Treasury announced.

This is pursuant to a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court of the United States prohibiting the transportation through this country of liquors from one foreign country to another foreign country.

FUNDAMENTALISTS WIN IN BAPTIST CONVENTION

Indianapolis, June 15.—Control of the Northern Baptist convention in session in the Cadle Auditorium is in the hands of the fundamentalist group headed by the Rev. Dr. J. C. Massee of Tremont Temple, Boston. This was proved when after fundamentalists had twice been snubbed on issues Dr. Massee was given an almost unanimous vote on a motion be introduced to hurry the nominations and elections of officers. The manner in which the fundamentalists showed voting strength was the surprise of the convention.

"FREE FOR ALL" ON SHIP OVER QUART OF LIQUOR

Washington, June 15. — Dispute over a quart of whiskey was said to have started a riot on a steamer plying between Washington and a Potomac River resort in which 400 excursionists took part and one man was killed and a score injured, one probably fatally, before the disorder ended at Alexandria, Va. "Pop" bottles and knives inflicted most of the injuries. A number of arrests were made.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND GOSSIP

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

"ESMERALDA, you're such a pretty girl," some one says to some one else. "You're a lot prettier than a raft of movie stars I've seen. My goodness! I should think you would go into the movies."

Then someone else tells Esmeralda the same thing and she—there are several thousand of her—applies in letter or person for the privilege of making the movies just that much more joyous to the eye.

TALK OF PULL.

But in at least 1,999 times out of a possible 2,000 all she gets is courteous treatment. She and her friends then begin to talk about "pull" needed to get into films.

As a matter of fact, getting into pictures requires the hard pull of daily work, long hours and endless weeks. Every now and then there is a character or type part for which some particular individual seems fitted by nature to play. There are, possibly, two such parts during the year, and two parts a year can hardly class as a rosy career. Hardly.

SURE FIRE TEST.

As far as qualifications for straight leading parts are concerned, there are simple tests that anyone can apply to himself or herself at home before knocking on the studio door. Miss Bijou Fernandez, the Goldwyn representative who is in New York looking for "new faces" for screendom, has evolved, as it were, the directions for sure-fire tests. Here they are:

TEST FOR BEAUTY.

THE primary requisites are, height for men, not over five feet ten inches; for women, not over five feet five inches; weight, slimness is essential because the screen tends to make a person appear plumper than he really is.

Ankles and wrists must be small and well-shaped. It is necessary to be able to walk gracefully, not an easy accomplishment. Features should be well-shaped, and a round face with no prominent bony structure is best. Bones throw shadows that harden the expression.

EYES IMPORTANT.

Eyes are important. Miss Fernandez states. Possibly she means that each person should have two of them. What one actually goes on to say is that light eyes are very bad for screening. Dark eyes are best and should be widely spaced. One should have good teeth, naturally. Gold fillings photograph black, so they're out. Blonde hair is best for ingenues, though the color of the hair is not necessarily important. Lighting takes care of that.

Miss Fernandez ends up with "Anyone who meets these specifications is sure of securing a test before the motion picture camera. It is safe to say that if your eyes are light blue or gray, if your ankles and wrists are thick, if you haven't a good carriage, if you aren't decidedly slim, if you are too tall, if you haven't even features and if you haven't a good personality, your chances are slender.

"Above all, twenty-five is just about the age dead line."

MABEL NORMAND SAILS

MABEL NORMAND was one of the passengers of the Aquitania as she sailed from New York on Tuesday for Cherbourg and Southampton. With her was a friend, Miss Juliet Courtial.

Miss Normand appeared quietly and tried to slip aboard without arousing comment. Reporters caught sight of her, however, and tried to get in touch with her. She refused to talk, saying only that she was going to England to see her mother and that she was anxious to get away from the Taylor discussion. She has just finished filming "Suzanne."

IN GALE DIVORCE MIXUP

MRS. CLARE E. GALE

Young Roxbury wife and dancing teacher who is seeking divorce. Her husband first declined to contest the action. He changed his mind, however, when his mother declared she would fight it herself.

are settled. There has been discussion as to what he would do after severing his connections with the Selznick Company. He has signed up to play the lead with Norma Talmadge in her next film, "The Voice From the Minaret."

This arrangement is due to the fact that the fans have been clamoring for more of the Talmadge-O'Brien pictures. There has been difficulty lately since neither wanted to give up stardom for a mere lead. O'Brien will doubtless be a featured member of the cast, while Miss Talmadge will be the star.

OVERALLS FOR DOROTHY DALTON.

ONCE more Dorothy Dalton is donning an old sweater and overalls for the movies instead of the society clothes she usually affects. This is for the next Dorothy Dalton Jack Holt starring production, "On the High Seas," which Irvin Willat is directing.

This picture is "something different." In that there are only three roles in the entire film, those of Miss Dalton, Mr. Holt, and the third, Mitchell Lewis, the famous "heavy."

MAHLON HAMILTON CHOSEN

FOR those who have been wondering where Mahlon Hamilton has disappeared, the announcement comes that he is hard at work on the coming Elaine Hammerstein picture for Selznick, "Under Oath."

Hamilton is one of the few actors who finds it pays to free lance. He signs with companies only for the duration of one picture and is kept busy hurrying from studio to studio.

100,000 FROM POLAND CROSSED SEA IN 1921

Warsaw, June 15.—One hundred thousand emigrants left Poland for the United States and Canada during 1921, and 40,000 re-emigrants came into Poland, bringing with them about $300,000.

HUBBY RUSHES BACK TO FIGHT DIVORCE SUIT

Hollis P. Gale, of Roxbury, whose mother, Mrs. Catherine E. Gale, caused a stir in Suffolk Divorce Court by offering to contest the suit her son ignored, has changed his mind and will fight his wife's action to the limit.

Gale arrived in Boston from New York and immediately went into consultation with his attorneys. His sudden determination to fight the suit brought by his wife is considered a signal victory for his mother.

In court on Monday the divorce action brought by his wife, Clara E. Gale, was opened. The young Mrs. Gale charged her husband with non-support, intoxication and with disturbing members of the dancing class which she maintained for her support.

Gale sat silent and made no answer to the charges. His attorney told the court his client would not contest the suit because he did not care to live with his wife again.

Suddenly Mrs. Gale, mother of the defendant, rose and said:

"I will contest that suit."

Attorneys again made known Gale's desire to be rid of his wife, but the case was not closed.

The senior Mrs. Gale, who is a Catholic, stands by the tenets of the Church which forbid divorce.

DEFENDANT AND HIS MOTHER. At top, Mrs. Catherine C. Gale, the husband's mother. She stirred the court by offering to contest the case if her son refused to act. At bottom, Hollis P. Gale, the husband, who changed his mind and will fight the issue out.

additional delay is expected on account of the reports, however, as they may be completed while arrangements for calling up the measure in the House are being perfected.

When the majority report is ready, Chairman Greene will formally apply to the rules committee for a special rule making the bill in order on a day next week yet to be agreed upon. Absent members of the rules committee have been ordered back for a meeting Monday to consider the application.

DILBOY POST FETE PROVING A SUCCESS

The George Dilboy Post, No. 529, V. F. W., opened its Mardi Gras Saturday evening, June 10, on the Fellsway boulevard, and although unfavorable weather conditions have prevailed indications point towards the Mardi Gras being a success.

BOY ABLAZE IS RESCUED FROM GARAGE FIRE

Daniel Redmond, a nineteen-year-old Somerville boy, trapped in a blazing garage with his clothing in flames, was saved from death by his friend, Harry Kelligian.

Both Redmond and Kelligian were taken to the Cambridge Hospital. Redmond was terribly burned about the arms, face and shoulders. Kelligian was discharged soon after receiving treatment.

Redmond lives at No. 136 Highland avenue, Somerville. Kelligian lives at No. 26 Chestnut street, that city. Kelligian is twenty-seven years old.

They were burning oil rags and papers in the boiler room of Kelligian's garage when an explosion caused by a back draft, shot flames from the furnace door into their faces.

With a cry of pain, Redmond ran for a window. Kelligian, who did not receive the full force of the blast from the open furnace, escaped through the garage door.

When Kelligian found that his companion was inside the garage he dashed through the smoke and flame to the side of young Redmond. The youth blinded by the flames that had burned his face, was frantically trying to open a window. Young Redmond's clothes were a mass of flames when Kelligian led him out of the garage.

Fire on Redmond's clothing and on Kelligian's was extinguished by Kelligian's brother, Michael, by smothering the flames with automobile robes. Michael then extinguished the fire in the garage. Michael carried his brother and Redmond to the hospital.

CHINESE AVIATRIX TO PAY VISIT TO AMERICA

Peking, China, June 15.—Miss Maupia Ju, the only aviatrix in China, is planning a trip to the United States to further her knowledge of flying. She learned aviation while her father was chief of the South China military government, and it is her aim to become a professional pilot and instructress.

How You Can Make Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Helps to Beauty)

Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove hair from arms, neck or face make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread the hairy surface and after about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone and mix fresh as wanted.

In memory of Sergeant Cyril Mosher, a graduate of the East Greenwich Academy, who lost h' life in the world war, and oth students who participated in th struggle, a German cannon capture by the French and presented by the French Republic was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies as a prelude to the annual commencement exercises. Letters from President Harding, former President Wilson and Ambassador J. J. Jusserand of France, were read.

U. S. EXPEDITION WARNED FROM LUSITANIA

London, June 15. — International complications are threatened as a result of rival claims to salvage the Lusitania. It was stated today on behalf of Count Landi, head of the Ayready Salvage Company, that the British cruiser Dublin is now cruising about the south coast of Ireland to protect the wreck and to warn off the Philadelphia treasure seeker Blakely.

It is also asserted that Trinity House will not grant Blakely an anchorage license or allow his crew to land.

Count Landi declares the remains of the Lusitania are owned by the Liverpool and London War Risks Association, and that inasmuch as they have never abandoned the liner, the American expedition has no right to touch their property, even though it lies outside of territorial waters.

Count Landi's contract with this association, he to take 80 per cent. of the value of everything raised, and the association getting the balance. He plans to leave for the scene next week, having been delayed several weks by the engineering strike.

ALLSTON GIRL TO WED ATTY. O'CONNELL

Attorney Daniel T. O'Connell, will be married to Miss Esther Moran of Allston in St. Anthony's Church, Allston, on June 21.

D. T. O'Connell

The wedding is the culmination of a boy and girlhood friendship between the two. After several strenuous years in Washington as head of the Irish National Bureau, Mr. O'Connell is practicing law in Boston at No. 63 State street. He is associated with his brothers, Attorney James E. and former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell.

The prospective groom was a Boston newspaper reporter previous to admission to the bar. He is a graduate of Harvard College and B. U. Law School, is now National Councilor of the Friends of Irish Freedom and a member of the American, Massachusetts and Boston Bar Associations.

Veteran Somerville Minister Wed to Brohter's Widow

The marriage of Rev. Dr. Charles Lothrop Noyes, who has just closed a ministery of 40 years in charge of the Broadway Winter Hill Congregational Church in Somerville, and Mrs. Inez C. Noyes of Auburndale, has brought out the startling news that Dr. Noyes has wizard to be widow of his brother, who died in 1900.

Just when the Rev. C. L. Noyes romance started neither can say, but they admit it was close to twenty years ago, a while after the death of his brother. Mrs. Noyes has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. Bernard B. Johnson, in Auburndale.

Last Sunday Dr. Noyes preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation and announced his coming marriage. He is now pastor emeritus of the church and although retired from active work in the ministery, will go to Yokohama, Japan, in the Fall to preach for a year.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. John Taylor of Arlington, and only eight persons, including the principals, were present.

AGREEMENT IN ANGLO-IRISH PARLEY

Belfast, June 15 (By International News Service).—Six buildings were burned here by incendiaries during the night.

The Ulster special constables at Armagh are threatening to resign because a platoon was suspended for holding up and searching the automobile of Cardinal Logue, Roman Catholic primate for Ireland.

London, June 15 (By the International News Service).—The Irish constitutional problem, which for a time threatened the reoccupation of Ireland by British military forces, has been satisfactorily settled, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

There are still other difficulties pending, however.

Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill announced that the Irish constitution, as amended, now conforms with the Anglo-Irish peace treaty.

After the conference of the signatories Arthur Griffith made the following statement to the International News Service:

"The question of the Irish constitution has now been cleared up. But there are other difficulties which are now pending."

7 INJURED IN HEAD-ON CAR COLLISION

Milford, June 15.—Operator William Bowen and six passengers were injured in a head-on collision between a Woonsocket trolley car and Woonsocket express car on the curve near the P. P. Cook farm in Bellingham, due to a misunderstanding of orders.

The front vestibule of the one-man car was demolished. Motorman Bowen sustained cuts on the head, and a severe wrench of the left ankle.

The injured: Mrs. David E. Casey, Purchase street, bruises of chest and shock; Mrs. Thomas Brennan, Oliver street, shock and shaken up; Mrs. Susie Gardella, Grant street; Mrs. W. H. Casey, Purchase street, body bruises and contusions; Mrs. J. T. Murphy, Hollis street, cuts and bruises of legs and body; Edward MacLachlan, Hopedale, cuts and bruises.

Conan Doyle Will Use Radio in His Psychic Researches

Atlantic City, N. J., June 15.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle today announced his intention of studying the mysteries of wireless in an effort to apply it to his psychic investigations.

After listening to daily broadcasting from Newark and Pittsburgh stations, Sir Arthur made arrangements for a complete outfit to be installed in his English home. He said:

LYNN MAN HELD IN ATTEMPT TO KILL WIFE

Herman Aulanko, a shoe worker, was in Lynn Court today, charged with an attempt to murder his wife, Mrs. Theda Aulanko, on Exchange street last Monday.

Aulanko, through his attorney, J. Frank Williams, waived examination and was held in $10,000.

Mrs. Aulanko, wounded in the left hip by the bullet her husband fired as she left the restaurant where she was a waitress, was not in court, although discharged from Lynn Hospital yesterday.

Aulanko, with a large bandage about his head where he shot himself after shooting his wife, appeared to be still suffering from his self inflicted wound.

In a letter he wrote before meeting his wife Aulanko said that he had decided to kill her so as "to keep our six-year-old daughter from feeling shame at her mother."

Later he said he could not stand having his wife running "around with other men the way she has been doing."

Gloucester Mayor Would Give Alien Job Before Veteran

Gloucester, June 15.—"If it came to a choice of an overseas boy who was single and an alien who had two children, I would put the alien to work in preference," said Mayor Percy W. Wheeler at the weekly meeting of Gloucester's Municipal Council when he answered a charge by Alderman Gilbert W. O'Neill, an American Legion member, that aliens were being employed on park work in preference to local citizens.

4 KEEP PLEDGE IN WINE SEALED 40 YEARS AGO

Four old men, Masons, Knights Templar and survivors of a little group of twenty five, will meet Saturday afternoon at the Cambridge home of William L. Lathrop, on Franklin street, to sip from a forty year-old bottle of win a toast to the memory of the dead and gone twenty one.

The other members of the Masonic quartette are Edgar P. Hunt, No. 5 Clinton street, Cambridge, veteran sword bearer for the Boston Commandery, with fifty years and more in Masonry behind him; Leonard E. Nichols of Brookline, and William J. Wilson of Cambridge.

The wine was donated on June 17 1852, by the late Z. H. Thomas, Jr. of Cambridge, then recorder of the Boston Commandery, and past master of the Joseph Warren Lodge, at a banquet given him on his 50th birthday, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his entry into Masonry.

One of the gifts had been a number of bottles of a rare wine. Of these, he sealed one and arranged that it was to be opened on the twenty fifth anniversary of that date, and every fifth year thereafter, by the survivors of the guests at the banquet, and a toast drunk to the memory of the departed.

Only seven of the original twenty-five were alive when the bottle was opened June 17, 1907. They met, drank a toast and re-sealed the bottle. Five years later but six attended. The same six were present at the 1917 gathering. Saturday, only four will be present.

Mr. Thomas, who gave the bottle, died before the twenty-fifth anniversary

FEENEY HOME LOOTED

HOW BURGLARS ENTERED HOME OF ATTORNEY

Diagram showing manner in which thieves gained access to the residence of Mr. Feeney at No. 17 Melville avenue, Dorchester, by way of a rear porch window, then climbed a flight of stairs and entered the bedroom in which the noted criminal lawyer was asleep. Here they stole $50 in cash from a bureau within twelve feet of the bed, and later descended to the dining room, where they carted away a $500 silver service presented to Mr. and Mrs. Feeney by citizens of Woburn as a wedding gift. They left by the same window. Inserts show Mrs. John P. Feeney (Photo by Marshall Studio, Cambridge,) and John P. Feeney.

MARCONI TRIES TO HAIL MARS WITH RADIO

New York, June 15.—With William Marconi expected here within the next few days to explain "important developments" in wireless, it has become known that the perfector of radio telegraphy is conducting experiments off Bermuda on his yacht Elettra, hoping to get signals from Mars.

Sunday next, Mars will be within 42,000,000 miles of the earth, the nearest point it has been since 1919, and this fact has led Mr. Marconi to renew his efforts to pick up the messages that he has been convinced for the past five years are being sent across space.

During his presence in the United States Mr. Marconi plans to demonstrate accurate transmission of messages at the rate of 100 words a minute between this country and Great Britain.

THIEVES SORRY THEY ROBBED FEENEY

If the yeggmen who robbed John P. Feeney's house a few days ago had known it was the home of the famous criminal lawyer, they would never have done it.

This statement is vouched for in a letter to a local newspaper from the thieves themselves. Here is the letter:

Mister.—We red in your paper how johnie feeneys house was frisked. we gut the stuf but we didn't no it was johnie feeneys stuff, honest to god we didn't. our gohead man put the crog on that house an sed j. p. fleary market staff man lived there.

Johnnie feeney is our lawyer an fer our national union, he defended we twict. both times I would go up for five or ten and he took ker (care) uv our union secretary dan donigal who is doin his bit for 2 to 7. REFUSES CHANCE TO ENTER U. S. AS "MAID"

New York, June 15.—Mrs. Amiti Motti, wife of a wealthy Milan exporter and banker, who was refused admittance to this country because the Italian immigration quota had been filled, refused to evade the law by taking advantage of a subterfuge that was offered her. She was told that she could enter if she styled herself as a chambermaid, but she replied that she was a gentlewoman, and would not lie to get into any country.

She will return to Italy as soon as the seven trunks she brought over can be collected.

WARNING AGAINST MILEAGE BOOK FUND

Money contributed in support of propaganda for interchangeable mileage books is "worse than thrown away," and solicitations now being made to business men for such contributions are chiefly for the financial benefit of the solicitors, according to a warning issued by the National Industrial Traffic League. This warning has been sent out under the direction of W. H. Chandler, who is president of the National Industrial Traffic League and also is manager of the Transportation Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Beauty Talks
By Louise Huff

Los Angeles, Cal.—That dainty and charming actress, Louise Huff, noted for her wonderful complexion, is also a writer of many articles on the subject of beauty. She gladly tells the readers of this paper how they may quickly acquire a smooth, soft, rosy-white complexion. Here is her method: "To get the best results the skin must be thoroughly cleansed daily with a good cleansing cream. I prefer Lieberman's cream. Then apply Derwillo, which you can secure at the toilet counter of any up-to-date drug or department store. This combination instantly beautifies the complexion and leaves nothing else."

Over one million women are now using Derwillo in preference to face powders and other beautifiers, and they are all just as enthusiastic over it as Miss Huff. Get Derwillo and Lieberman cold cream and try them today. You will be delighted. The druggists sell them under a money refund guarantee.

100 BRIDGES IN BAY STATE ARE DANGEROUS

More than 100 bridges in common use in this State were today declared to be unsafe by Frank D Kemp, who is retiring from public service after thirteen years as a State commissioner of highways.

Their unsafe condition jeopardizes the lives of the autoists who use them every day, Kemp declared.

And they will remain in their dangerous condition for a year at least because so many towns in the State are poverty-stricken and the State has failed to lay out a policy of bridge building.

"They are mostly the bridges in the small towns," said Commissioner Kemp "I can't estimate how long they will stand or how imminent the danger of collapse. But I can say that every heavy truck passing over them makes the danger that much nearer at hand.

"A bridge ought to be at least 16 feet wide to permit of safe passage by two autos. Some of these bridges are 14 feet, many 20 feet wide.

"The towns cannot afford to rebuild them. I have in mind a bridge over the Connecticut River in the town of Northfield. The bridge is 400 feet long and would require at least $250 000 to rebuild, yet Northfield has a valuation of only $1-900,000.

"The State ought to be spending $3,500,000 a year for rebuilding unsafe bridges."

Mayor Offers $500 for Best Plan of Cleaning City

A cash prize of $500 has been offered by Mayor Curley for the best technical plan forstreet cleaning and the collection of garbage and ashes in the city.

The competition is limited to the students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The essays should be sent to the Budget Commissioner, Charles J. Fox.

In announcing the prize the Mayor has in mind the technical problem that it involves, in place of the old question of whether the work can be done better by contract labor or by the city department forces.

PITTSBURGH IN ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

The White Star liner Pittsburgh arrived at Boston today on her maiden voyage from Liverpool and Queenstown after a pleasant voyage. The new liner brought 104 cabin and 115 steerage passengers to Boston and has about 150 other passengers to disembark at Philadelphia.

The Pittsburgh is a triple screw turbine ship and represents the last word in electrical equipment in British shipbuilding. She burns oil, and all of her auxiliary equipment, even to the kitchens, are operated by electricity.

The new liner has four big electric cranes with which to lower her lifeboats in an emergency. The cranes sling the boats far over the side and can be operated at a speed which far outruns hand-operated davits.

Several prominent British electrical engineers are making the round trip on the Pittsburgh to observe the working of her apparatus. Among them are W. J. Wilet Bruce, R. E. Williams, and J. A. Hunn, the latter is the proprietor of the works at Norwich, where much of the Pittsburgh's equipment was built.

Among the Bostonians on board were Rev. D. D Addison and family, C. P. Anthony, G. H. Condit, Miss A. S. Gifford, Mrs. S. J. Harvey, Mrs. A. W. Pollard and Miss Priscilla Pollard and Miss Helen Lewandowska.

Miss Lucia Howard of Brookline and Miss Virginia Nickerson from Red Beach, Me., two pretty New England teachers, returned on the ship from a tour which included Southern Europe, the Levant and the British Isles.

John W. McLachlan, Boston manager of the freight department of the International Mercantile Marine lines, and his wife also were passengers.

Mr Willet Bruce, the superintending engineer of the White Star Line at Liverpool, examined the drydock at Boston while in the city, reviving the story that the Majestic, the biggest ship in the world, will come here to go into the drydock in the Fall. It is probable that all of the big ships of the White Star Line will come here for drydocking in the future.

William Whitehouse of Pawtucket, who, with Mrs. Whitehouse, had been visiting relatives in England, died of heart failure on the Pittsburgh last Tuesday. His son was notified by wireless and met his mother when the ship docked.

GOOD CLOTHES

It Frequently Happens in June

Along about this time of year, a man often has some difficulty in finding just the kind of suit he wants. Most clothing stocks have now been pretty well skimmed. The cream's about all gone.

But here's a stock of Good Clothes that's just as complete, just as attractive and just as wide in variety as at the start of the season.

Variety is our middle name the year round. No matter what type of suit you want—what size, color or pattern—here's the most likely place to find it.

And what's equally important—you'll find $5 to $10 more left in your pocket than there would have been if you had bought the same suit anywhere else.

STRIKERS FIGHTING SLAVERY, DENOUNCE 'TYRANT' POLICE

The Boston American is making a thorough and an impartial study of the textile strike centres of New England. The underlying causes, the issues involved, the progress of the strikes, the obstacles in the way of settlement and the peace outlook all are being considered.

The third of the series on the New Hampshire situation is printed herewith, and, in a few days, the strike stories of other localities will begin. Points will be taken to make them careful and calm expositions of the real situations. Criticism of this series is invited. Tomorrow there will be another instalment on the New Hampshire situation.

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Manchester, N. H., June 15.—What has taken place since the opening of the Coolidge mill is history so fresh in the public mind that it needs but brief recounting.

The strikers were allowed two pickets at each gate. They were indefatigable and open and above-board in advising their people to obey the law and the orders of the police.

Last week Monday Chief Healy closed streets leading to the mill gates, causing a jam where none existed before. The following morning the police made numerous arrests, mostly boys. The trouble had more the aspect of a police offensive than defensive. The following night there were no arrests, among them a Polish woman who did not understand the police orders and ran true to form when pushed and shoved by men in uniform.

Then Chief Healey ordered the arrest of one of the leaders, who called at the station for news, on the charge of inciting to riot. The case was thrown out of court. He threatened next the principal strike leader with arrest on the same charge, notwithstanding the fact that he knew the man had been unswerving in his stand for law and order and co-operation with the police.

After a confab with counsel for the strike chief the police chief returned to normalcy and recognized the good intentions and the good work for peace of the strike leaders by accepting their proposal to permit them to resume picketing for the purpose of preventing outbreaks, even though the injunction of the court forbids the strikers, all and singly, from doing much else than eat and sleep.

It certainly did look for a few hours as if the police were in a fair way to lose control of a bad situation largely of their own building. Looking backward it is clear that the strike leaders did their best to prove it is their purpose to discourage violence and disorder whenever threatened and suppress wherever started.

The injunction, issued by Judge William H. Sawyer is most sweeping in its terms and scope. It names President Thomas F. McMahon, Vice-President James Starr, Secretary-Treasurer Sam Conlon, Organizers Horace Butler, Edward Cut lachan, Mary Kelliher, John Conway and Thomas Keenan of the United Textile Workers, William Larkin of the International Association of Machinists, Joseph Flanagan of the Union of Firemen and Oilers, John McNeill of the Sheet Metal Workers, J. J. Smith of the Electrical Workers, John L. Barry, president of the State branch of the Federation of Labor, seventy members of the strike board of strategy, and fifteen and members of every local and metal trades union in the city.

IS TO STRIKERS.

Those folks are enjoined by the order of Court from assaulting, threatening, intimidating, stoning, insulting, annoying, following and directing abusive and derisive language and opprobrious epithets against the agents and employes and those desiring to enter the employ of the Amoskeag mills. They must not write or circulate threatening scurrilous or intimidating letters, concourse about factories or approaches, parade, patrol, picket or loiter in the vicinity of mills, surround houses of employes or those desiring to become employes of mills, throw missiles at houses or visit the homes and threaten the families of others who have gone to work or wish to do so.

The strike leaders have issued orders to have the injunction respected to the letter. They intend to show the mill bosses an example in forbearance and respect for law. These bosses, they assert, have been going to the homes of strikers and threatening the occupants with eviction and permanent loss of employment. Amoskeag unless they return to work within a certain time.

The strike leaders have complained of this bullying to Chief Healy and have been met with the statement from him that the mill bosses have a lawful right to call upon their former employes and tenants, a right denied the strike leaders by court or law. Even in this matter, the leaders say, they will be meek and guided by the chief's orders.

Most of the mill workers live in houses owned by the company. Hence the feudal system in Manchester.

DUMAINE ALL-POWERFUL.

As has been said, Frederic C. Dumaine rules the destiny of Manchester by the power of a most eminent mill domain, which ordinarily gives work to one-fifth of the inhabitants of this city of 80,000 population, upon whose industry depends the living of at least another fifth and upon whose spending depends the solvency of still another fifth of the community engaged in trade.

Dumaine personally is not a part of the community of Manchester. He is an absentee landlord or overlord. His profits in Massachusetts. He is not the largest stockholder but he represents and is upheld by the controlling powers of the Amoskeag company. This company is a voluntary association established under the terms of trust made at Manchester on September 29, 1911.

There are about 8,500 holders of Amoskeag stock. Control is in the hands of about a dozen. Here they are, the men with whom whatever Dumaine says goes, and who compose the board of trustees.

Alvah W. Sulloway of Franklin, and F. P. Carpenter of Manchester, N. H., and George Wigglesworth, president; Frederick C. Dumaine, treasurer; Charles Francis Adams, Galen L. Stone, Philip Dexter, William Amory, George Peabody Gardner, Robert Winsor, Frederick H. Sears, Jr., and Charles H. Cotting, all to the forefront in big business in Boston and residing in the suburbs.

These men are prominent in the affairs of Harvard, are famous in the fields of finance, strong figures in banking, mining, mill and realty worldes. Amoskeag is not the only big melon they enjoy, but it is among the biggest.

WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT.

Amoskeag stock has shown wonderful development. Only recently, by arrangement of surplus, five shares of new stock were issued for each share of old. In the ten-year period, 1912-1921 inclusive, the estimated total profit from dividends and surplus, has been about $30,500,000, since 1908 the capitalization has been increased from $4,000,000 to $44,500,000. This increase has been entirely from profits, not one dollar having been put into the business from any other source.

The receipts from sales by the Amoskeag in 1921 amounted to $31,287,574, and the net profit was $3,223,647, a profit of five cents and five mills on every dollar of sales. That is called a "narrow margin of profit" and the declaration is made that, "in order to meet Southern competition, wages must be cut, the workday lengthened and more labor wrung from the workers.

There is the case. Tae workers rebel and go out on strike to escape, as they say, industrial serfdom. The poor Boston men mentioned above as the controlling bloc of stockholders insist that their dividend rate must be maintained, even though the number of shares of stock have increased eight fold in the last ten years, every one of the extra slices coming from stock dividends and not costing the investors a penny.

Where did this great harvest come from? To the average person it would seem that most of it came from the pockets of the people who bought Amoskeag cloth, that it was shared exclusively as a bonus by the stockholders and not at all by the workers as their wages are figured in the gross cost of production.

Still, there is the bugaboo of Southern competition, a competition controlled by the same interests that controls New England mills—New England money.

Apropos of the 48-hour week it should be remembered that much of the support for such a bill died out at the last session of the New Hampshire Legislature when Ashton Thorp, legislative counsel for the Amoskeag, said one good reason why there was no necessity for a 48-hour law was that such a law was practically in effect already. In answer to a question he said the Amoskeag had no idea of ever returning to a 54-hour basis. Further, he said, that, if the time ever should arise when the company desired to operate on a 54-hour basis temporarily it would first make sure there was a mutual understanding between the company and its employes. Mr. Thorp was believed. It is said that he is now the legislative counsel of the Amoskeag.

The strikers are anxious for an honorable settlement, but will not put on the new yoke fashioned by the Amoskeag. President Hopkins of Dartmouth is quoted as being in favor of a fair arbitration and ex-Governor Robert P. Bass feels so keenly the suffering involved that he has tried to bring about a conference, but the mill officials declined his invitation.

One prominent clergyman said to the Boston American man: "I fear that Dumaine is sowing the whirlwind," while another declared that he could give no advice relative to bringing about a settlement other than to say: "See Dumaine. It's up to him." It is quite evident that the Amoskeag strike is more than a New Hampshire problem.

HARD COAL MEN PLAN FORMAL STRIKE

By International News Service.

New York, June 15.—The breaking of negotiations between the representatives of the anthracite coal operators and the officials of the United Mine Workers seems to leave no alternative to the union but to turn the suspension of work into a formal strike, in the opinion of the union leaders.

A formal strike would mean the calling out of the maintenance men who are now safeguarding the coal mines against flooding.

"I have no doubt a strike will be issued, effective July 1," said Chris. J. Golden, president of District No. 8. "There will be a meeting of the district president in Wilkesbarre on June 26, when the strike ballots will be canvassed."

Golden predicted a shortage of house coal if there is a formal strike.

Hoover Meets Coal Men to Fix Prices

Washington, June 15.—Faced with threats of a Senate investigation unless he finds a way to keep coal prices from skyrocketing, Secretary of Commerce Hoover went into conference today with operators and retailers to make another effort to prevent profiteering during the strike.

Secretary Hoover's principal complaint is that operators in some districts are not holding to maximum prices agreed upon in early conferences here and that higher prices in some parts of the country have resulted in criticism of the entire coal industry. He will endeavor to effect a price fixing agreement applicable to all producing districts which the operators may adhere to voluntarily.

RUSSIA AND FINLAND SIGN TREATY OF PEACE

Moscow, June 15.—Russia and Finland have signed a treaty of peace to prevent further outbreaks along the Russo-Finnish frontier Russia served warning that if the Finnish troops made any more raids Russia would regard it as cause for war. Under the treaty a neutral zone is established and Finland is required to withdraw her troops from the boundary.

ow to Make Perfect Strawberry Jam in 10 Minutes

New Certo Process Astonishes Housewives

Never Fails, Requires Only One Minute's Boiling, Retains All the Color and Flavor and Makes More Jam from Same Amount of Frut

Strawberries are now plentiful at a low price, sugar is cheap and housewives are putting up strawberry jam as never before. Best of all, the brand new and never failing Certo process for making jams and jellies has eliminated every reason why any housewife should hesitate to make such a delicious conserve. Anyone can now make perfect strawberry jam in 10 minutes, at a very low cost, with all the fresh flavor and color of the fruit retained.

The new Certo process is very simple. Crush well but not to juice about two quarts of ripe berries, using wooden masher and discarding all green parts. Measure 4 cups crushed berries, add the juice of one lemon and 7½ leveled cups (3¾ lbs.) sugar into good-sized preserving kettle. Mix well; stir hard and constantly. Bring to vigorous boil and boil hard one full minute, continually stirring. Take from fire and add ¾ bottle (scant ⅞ cup) Certo, stirring in well. Let stand 5 minutes only, by the clock, stirring occasionally; skim and pour into sterilized glasses. Result is 10 half-pound glasses of strawberry jam for total cost of 97 cents (strawberries at 30c a box and sugar at 6c a lb.). Use this same recipe with raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and loganberries.

IMPORTANT: Best way to seal Jams and Jellies is open glasses. Cover while hot with thin coat hot paraffin. Next day add tablespoonful hot paraffin to seal cracks around edge formed by shrinkage on cooling.

The former guess work and worry of making jam or jelly is now past. The Certo Process is endorsed by government authorities and cooking experts; it insures perfect results with every batch. It is also very economical, requiring only one minute's boiling and thereby makes two-thirds more jam or jelly than the old method. It also makes all kinds of jam or jelly, some you have never tasted before, like pineapple and rhubarb jelly, or combinations like strawberry and pineapple, etc. Many housewives with no little pride are exhibiting the new flavors and better quality of jams and jellies made with Certo.

Certo is absolutely pure—contains no gelatine or preservative. Housewives have received it with open arms because it is so certain, so economical, so simple, and so useful. They are recommending it to all their friends. Get a bottle of Certo with Certo Book of Recipes containing the above and nearly 100 other recipes, from your grocer or druggist at once. Extra copies sent free if you write to the Percin Sales Company, Inc., 112 Fitzhugh Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. Try Certo right away with fresh fruit like strawberry or pineapple. Then you will do all your preserving the new and modern way—the easy, economical and better Certo Process. If your grocer or druggist does not have Certo, please telephone Main 5255 Dwyer, Fort Hill 1014, to learn where to obtain it.

CUCUMBER KING ADORED GOLD, SAYS WIFE

Declaring that her husband forgot her in his race for riches, Mrs. Adam Foster, who filed a divorce suit against him recently and asked $75,000 alimony, has left his house on Elm street, Woburn, and has taken refuge in the home of a friend across the street.

A few years ago Foster was a street car conductor. Now, however, he has a fortune and is known as the "Cucumber King." The arrival of this wealth is blamed by his wife for the cooling of his love.

BECAME "GOLD CRAZY."

"My husband made money his God," she said, "and from the moment he began to be rich he forgot his love for me and treated me with cruelty. Once, in a fit of anger, he seized a chair and threw it at me. Another time he told me that he wished he could lift the stove so that he might throw that at me, too.

"Time after time I left him. But I always hoped that my forgiveness might work some change in him. Then I would return and try to win him back to me, as he had been before the gold-craze changed his nature."

Mrs. Foster declares that she is "through forever" with his alleged abuse and ill-treatment. Even now, she says, he is prevented from coming to the house where she is staying and dragging her back to his home only by the watchfulness of the friends who have given her sanctuary.

STARTED WITH GARDEN.

Neighbors say that at night she keeps her room dark, so that her husband cannot look across the street and watch her movements.

Foster acquired his wealth through the medium of the truck garden. While a conductor he began raising cucumbers in a small way.

He found he could make more money this way than in his regular business, and left the service of the traction company. He prospered, and is now accounted worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

WEEKS ALARMED AT U. S. 'SOCIAL DEMOCRACY'

Cleveland, June 15 (By the Associated Press).—A frankly pessimistic view of some of the predominant tendencies of American political thought was voiced today by Secretary of War Weeks at the commencement exercises of Western Reserve University. He declared the drift of recent years was gradually weakening the nation's governmental structure by undermining the constitution and sweeping away the principles of party responsibility.

The direct primary, "bloc" agitation, and the country's readiness to accept constitutional amendments were instanced by the speaker as furnishing evidence that the government was heading away from its ancient safeguards and toward complete social democracy.

As one result he asserted, in the public mind "the legislative branch of our national government probably never has been at a lower ebb than it is today."

"The direct primary," he continued, "has palpably lessened the quality of men willing to serve in public affairs that prompt action should be taken to greatly modify or entirely repeal it."

In its attempts to improve upon the work of the fathers by amending the Constitution, said the Secretary, the country had "failed signally."

He added that in the matter of popular elections "we have run riot," and he suggested that much of the present unrest and uncertainty seemed to centre in taxation and prohibition.

By way of preface, the Secretary said his philosophizing applied to no particular party and that he spoke not as a government official, but as a private citizen exercising his privilege of free speech. He said he was tempted to entitle his address "the decline of the American government."

"Then there is the constitutional amendment relating to prohibition," says the Secretary. "Whatever may be the individual views of citizens of prohibition, there is no question about the disquietude resulting from the adoption of this amendment and the laws for its enforcement.

"Taxation and prohibition have affected the individual pocketbook of the voter and his personal rights and privileges, as no recent things, and the natural result is criticism and dissatisfaction with government.

"I do not comment on the ultimate wisdom of the prohibition amendment, but it is indicative of one very palpable fact, an abrupt change in a matter affecting so many citizens cannot be made without creating violent opposition and resulting in much criticism of the government."

Betty Alden Tells of Stunning Gowns at Coolidge-Jones Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHEN Alison Jones walked down the aisle of Trinity Church yesterday afternoon upon the arm of her father, Dr. "Dan" Jones, there was a perceptible flutter of interest among the feminine contingent present.

For on the way to the altar the bride wore her veil in Oriental fashion, covering her face and hanging below the waist in front. A few minutes later, as she left the church upon the arm of the "lucky man," otherwise known as Charles A. Coolidge, Jr., the veil was thrown back and the radiant face of its wearer revealed.

The bride, who is slender and dainty and not at all tall, wore a shimmering gown of satin, with a long, square court train, its foundation also of satin and covered with rare family lace, caught to the train with clusters of orange blossoms. The long, flowing tulle veil fell in billowy folds over the train and was fastened with a slim wreath of orange blossoms.

Miss Beatrice Jones, who naturally attended her sister as maid of honor, wore a softly clinging gown of crepe, whose shade of American Beauty pink set off most effectively the wearer's rich brunette coloring. The six bridesmaids—the Misses Elizabeth Councilman, Isabella Thompson, Marion Vaillant, Elisabeth Carter and Mrs. Robert E. Kerr—were gowned alike in frocks of larkspur blue crepe, very simply made, with two panels falling below the hem on either side. Their hats were of pink straw, while larkspur blue stockings and silver slippers completed the attractive costumes.

The bridegroom obtained his sheepskin with the Harvard class of '17, as did the best man, James C. White. The group of ushers was composed of Messrs. Francis J. Amory, Edwin F. Atkins, Jr., Amory Coolidge, William T. Barker, Henry R. Guild, Homer L. Sweetser, Henry L. Shepley and Walter H. Trumbull of Boston, John Crocker of Fitchburg and John R. Shepley of St. Louis.

ONE of the most distinguished figures at the wedding was Mrs. Jones, mother of the bride, who was formerly Miss Mary Richardson. She is tall and stately, with very dark hair, which was set off most effectively by the orchid hat with plumes shading into deep purple. Her crepe dress was of orchid.

Mrs. Coolidge, the mother of the bridegroom, was also there, as were two of her daughters, including Mrs. Edwin F. Atkins (Mary Coolidge) of Belmont and Cuba, and Mrs. Thomas D. Cunningham, now of Denver, whose marriage to Dr. Cunningham took place in June of last year.

In the fashionable throng was also Mrs. Richard C. Storey (Anna Ladd), whose daughter, Miss Katherine Storey, was married in the same church on the first of the month to Theodore Lyman Storer.

IT would have been hard to find a more fitting scene for the wedding of Alison Jones and Charles Coolidge, Jr., for it was the bride's grandfather, Henry Hobson Richardson, the famous architect, who designed Trinity Church. And the beautiful canopy over the altar in the same church was given as the gift of the bridegroom's father.

And speaking of Trinity Church, which has been the effective background for so many important nuptial events, this edifice was begun in 1872 and finished about five years later. It is said to show the perfection of Mr. Richardson's individual style evolved from his study of the Romanesque churches in Southern France. The late Bishop Phillips Brooks, who preached for so many years from the pulpit of Trinity Church, said upon hearing of the death of Mr. Richardson, that he felt "as though some huge mountain which he had always looked up to had been taken away."

7,314 REPORT FOR TRAINING CAMPS

Washington, June 15.—Summer training camps were opened every where over the country today under the supervision for youths of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, part of the machinery of the new defensive military policy set up in the national defence act of 1920.

The corps now includes approximately 100,000 young men under training to become members of the Officers' Reserve Corps or Officers' National Guard, and of these it is estimated that 7,314 began today the Summer work of intensive field training at the camps which is counted on to round out their class room and other military work at schools and colleges.

The courses mapped out for the student officers cover the whole field of military science. Especially qualified regular officers have been assigned to the camps as instructors.

By corps areas, the attendance at the training corps camps is expected to aggregate as follows:

First Corps, 721; Second Corps, 665; Third Corps, 895; Fourth Corps, 1,330; Fifth Corps, 777; Sixth Corps, 703; Seventh Corps, 944, Eighth Corps, 557; Ninth Corps, 691.

Thousand Added to Camp Deven Troops

Camp Devens, June 15.—Nearly a thousand men were added to the contingent already here today, when fours days' school for commissioned and non-commissioned officers opened with the following units enrolled: Fifty-first Infantry Brigade, 102d Ambulance Company, 151st Infantry, Second Separate Battalion Infantry, Twenty-sixth Division Trains, Twenty-sixth Signal Corps Company, 211th A. A. Artillery, Fifth Cavalry, medical department. From Connecticut are: 169th Infantry, First Squadron of Cavalry first, Field Artillery Battery, 152rd Ambulance Company.

A fifteen-day camp will open at this cantonment July 8 to July 22.

It is expected that there will be at intervals during the Summer about 10,000 men from various parts of New England encamped here at one time.

Doctor Saw Klan Trio and Escaped Cat o'Nine Tails

Chicago, June 15. (By International News Service) — Three men, one of whom is said to have admitted he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, were arrested on the outskirts of Chicago today as they were returning in an automobile from Morris, Ills., where they are alleged to have gone to chastise a prominent doctor.

The doctor, they told the police, saw them in town and fled. The men gave the names of Herbert Pascolini, A. R. Umbach and N. W. Newman.

A cat o' nine tails, two loaded revolvers and a "billy" were found in the automobile.

'WOMEN'S GARB BAD AS BOYS' IN SWIMMING'

Hartford, Ct., June 15.—Boys who got in the 'ole swimmin' hole without the formality of bathing suits are not a bit worse than a "lot of the women you see around the streets," in the opinion of the Rev. Mathew J. Judge, juvenile commissioner.

Miss Anna O'Brien, juvenile probation officer, had reported the arrest of forty boys, charged with going swimming without sufficient bathing suits. The arrests were made at the swimming hole on the estate of Francis Goodwin.

"If you are going to arrest boys for not wearing enough clothes around a swimming hole," said the Rev. Mr. Judge, "you ought to arrest a lot of the women you see on the streets.

15 MILLION FIRE LOSS IN STATE LAST YEAR

A loss of more than $15,000,000 was suffered by the people of this State as the result of fires last year, according to the tabulation completed from official reports today by State Fire Marshal George C. Neal.

In other words, Massachusetts kept up her unfortunate rank with the other States of the country that has come to be known as "the most reckless and wasteful in the world."

The 1921 loss was a jump of $3,300,000 over the previous year, which was $1,170,000 over the loss in 1919.

Neal shows a progressive loss of $2,600 000 in 1919, of $3,141,000 in 1920 and $4,011,000 last year.

Neal report shows twenty-four persons convicted of arson, all year. There were seventy-eight incendiary fires.

The total valuation of the property on which fires occurred was $211,000 and the insurance on the property was $212,900,000. In compensation for the total loss of $15,587,000, the owners received insurance of $13,587,000.

COUPLE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN APARTMENT

New York, June 15.—The bodies of Frank Grudner and wife, Rebella, dead from bullet wounds, were found by Mrs. Grudner's brother lying on the floor of their flat. Police believed a quarrel led Grudner to shoot his wife twice in the head and then kill himself.

TRAIN BOYS, SAYS GEN. EDWARDS

Northfield, Vt., June 15. — This country has been engaged in war one year out of every six in its existence, and has a long list of "unnecessary dead," Major-General C. R. Edwards, commander of the First Army Corps area, declared today to the graduating class of Norwich University. The general advocated military training for the youth of the nation.

"We must remember that if we depart from the traditional ideals of the founders of our government," General Edwards said, "and allow the youth of our country to adopt strange ideals and become associated with new theories, the day is not far off when, by their votes, they will change the very structure of our government itself, and thus destroy us as a nation."

EX-TURKISH MINISTER PRISONER OF SOVIETS

Berlin, June 15.—Djemal Pasha, formerly Turkish minister of marine in the Talaat and Enver cabinets, and one of the Young Turks triumvirate who deposed Abdul Hamid, has been detained in Moscow by the Soviet Government and is held as hostage for Enver Pasha. Enver Pasha has declared war against Bolshevik Russia and with an army of 60,000 fanatical followers who rallied around his banner, has already inflicted a severe defeat to the famous Bolshevik general Budajenny, in the [illegible].

QUIMET AND GUILFORD CHOSEN TO MEET HERD AND TAYLOR

PICK BOSTON GOLFERS TO FACE BRITONS

New York, June 15.—Two of the best known American amateur golfers, National Champion Jesse Guilford and Former Champion Francis Ouimet, both of Massachusetts, will meet the crack British professional veterans, Sandy Herd and J. H. Taylor, in the first match of an exhibition tour of the United States this Summer.

The Arcola, N. J., Country Club announces today that it had booked the event, but the date is as yet indefinite, depending on the date the Englishmen depart for this country.

Guilford, playing in a foursome yesterday, shot a sixty-eight over the Weschester-Biltmore course at Rye, N. Y., two strokes shy of the record of sixty-six, held by Thomas D. Armour, Scotch star, and demonstrated that he is rounding into form for the defense of his amateur crown at Brookline in September.

CALZA BATTLES DAVISCOURT TONIGHT

By RINGSIDE.

The Calza surge will come to an abrupt end tonight.

SAM SMITH

This is the opinion of Dick Daviscourt, Californian wrestler, who battles the Italian mat champion in a finish match at the Grand Opera House this p. m. Daviscourt is quiet and modest. He's also a great wrestler.

Having seen Calza in action against Christensen, he feels he is in a position to pass judgment upon the ability of the Italian mat idol.

"I am the first bona fide heavyweight Calza has ever signed to meet," said Daviscourt. "Londos and Gardini," continued the Californian, "are rated as light heavyweights. I don't consider the Pleznia match as that was a handicap affair.

"We'll be battling to a finish tonight. Which leads me to believe I'll win. I weigh 210 pounds and have had much more experience than Calza. I also figure that I know more about the mat game than the Italian.

"I am elated because the match is to a finish. I don't think Calza will stand up when the going gets rough. My weight will give me a decided advantage."

Calza Is Fit For Gruelling Battle.

Calza, who arrived in Boston from New York, says he is in splendid condition. He declares he has prepared himself carefully for the fray and that he will win in quick time.

"I want to defeat Daviscourt so that I can get a shot at Stanislaus Zbyszko and Renato Gardini," said Calza. "Stanislaus has taken up the fight of his brother whom I charge went to Mexico so as to avoid meeting me. I'll take him on in Boston if I win over Daviscourt. I'll also be prepared to take a shot at Gardini whom I consider an easy mark."

Tonight's match will be best two falls out of three.

GEORGE BURNS MAY GET MORANS JOB AT CINCI

New York, June 15.—Pat Moran to step carefully out, George Burns to step modestly in as manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

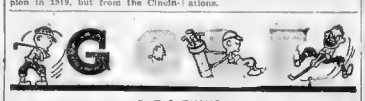
That is the report left in the wake of the Reds as they fled our city beautiful after dropping four straight to the Giants.

It began some days ago with what was alleged to be an early tip from the Red business admonished authenticity as a vest accustomed to soup stains. It is now accepted as something in the nature of a recorded fact.

If Moran is deposed it will not come as a stunning surprise to many familiar with the Garry Herrmann system of scene shifting around the Cincinnati ball park. They demand a winner out there and change managers as often as they fail to get the desired effect which might be said to be somewhat frequently.

Moran gave them a world's champion in 1919, but from the Cincinnati viewpoint, the past is dead, long live the future. It is said that they feel that there is little future for the Reds with Moran at the head of the ball club.

Pat, with all his managerial virtues, is something of a one-year manager. He succeeded Charley Dooin as pilot of the Phillies in 1915 and steered a derelict team to its first National League pennant. That was fine business. But with strong clubs to work with, he failed to repeat in 1916-and 1917, and the following year, his last in Philadelphia, he finished in the second division. It was then that they sang him Tosti's good-by with variations.



By F. G. THAYER

Entries close today for the State Amateur Championship, to be held June 28 to July 1 at the Kernwood Country Club of Salem. Those who intend to play and have not sent in their entries should communicate with W. F. Garcelon, secretary, at 608 Sears Building.

The drawings for the first medal rounds will be announced on June 27. The qualifying round will be thirty-six holes, the first thirty-two low scores being matched for the elimination rounds of eighteen holes with the finals at thirty-six holes.

The medalist, the champion and runner-up will receive prizes. The course will be open for practice on June 26 and 27. Kernwood is one of the best tests of golf in this country and especially so at this time, as the rough is very long and the fairways cut right down to championship width.

All one must have at Kernwood is a highly cultivated sense of direction, a long wallop and a lot of approach shots, to get the under eighty figures. All the short holes are first-class affairs and the long ones are real tests of the long and accurate type of game.

Woe be unto them who find the side fairways and kick into the rough, for it may take two penalty shots to get out after once in.

For that reason alone the scoring is likely to run high, and it would not be surprising if two 82's got into the qualification selected 32. It is safe to say that the cards below 80 on either morning or afternoon can be figured on one hand in the entire field. Familiarity with Kernwood is one of the most essential assets for low scoring.

Tomorrow is the day for the Merrimack River Valley championship team matches. Don't forget, and be sure to be on hand to help your club team out in the six-men total score. The entrance fee is $2 and should be made through the club secretary.

Two gross and two net prizes will be awarded the winner in the medal tournament and members of the winning team will all receive a medal. The shield of silver will go to the club that wins the 1922 championship, with their name engraved upon it. It will then be up for competition in 1923 and thereafter annually.

* * *

Lexington Golf Club holds its Spring tournament tomorrow and Saturday, play being permitted either Friday or Saturday. There are four prizes for the low gross and net rounds.

* * *

Mt. Pleasant Golf Club has its revamped course in apple-pie order for the open on Saturday and this club should draw a large crowd on the holiday. This event should not conflict with either Lexington or New Bedford, which hold tournaments. The entrance fee is $1, a popular fee, and make no mistake about it, this course is a good test of golf and a 76 should be good enough to take first money. Jerry F. Dolan is in charge of the tournament and the club can be reached by telephoning to 6344 M Lowell.

COMBINATION'S SEASON WILL OPEN TODAY

Today, weather permitting, the Bay State short ship circuit will begin its racing season at the West Medford half mile track. Everything is in fine shape for the initial day's sport. Frank Benjamin, the lessee of the plant, and his partner, Al Miller, have been a very busy pair the past two weeks, and the old course is in better shape than it has been for years.

The meeting extends through Saturday, with three classes each afternoon down for a decision. There are fully eighty racers slated to take the word during the "meet." Among them are a lot new in these parts, that have come here highly recommended, and our local horses must be at their very best if they expect to bring the bacon home.

The grounds have been fixed up in apple pie order, and general improvements have been made all around. Two weeks ago miles were reeled off in "eleven and twelve," so some fast trips may be looked for in the free-for-all pace down on today's card.

The events and entries:

2:24 trot, purse $600—Talmena, b. m.; Helen Scott, b. m.; Sirocco, br. g.; Little Mary, ch. m.; Jay Dee, br. g.; Elmeda, ch. m.; Native King, Jay Lee, b. g.; Ruth the Great, b. m.; Ed Mac, b. g.

Free-for-all pace, purse $600—Dan Hedgewood, b. h.; Col. Bidwell, b. h.; Bernie Hayt, ch. g.; Toney Mac, b. g.; Peter Look, b. g.

2:11 pace; purse $600—Rex McKinney, br. g.; Baxter Lou, ch. g.; Lady Gamage, b. m.; Todmore, b. g.; Buster Boy, ch. h.; Wilgus, b. g.; Juior Hall, b. g.

CAVANAUGH AND KELLER BATTLE AT WORCESTER

Frank Cavanaugh and Willie Keller are on edge for their special sprint match tonight at the Worcester Colliseum. This meet was postponed from Monday.

In a twenty-mile motor paced race, Frank Keenan of Revere will oppose Worth Mitten and Tony Colombito. In a sprint match, Sam Gow of Worcester will meet Sid Mantell of Whitinsville. Bill Magill and Ernie Dufresne of Whitinsville will oppose Shep Richmond and George Rhodes of Worcester in a pursuit race.

Chelsea and Everett K. of C. ball teams will meet Saturday at Everett in the second game of the series Chelsea captured the first game.

ROSE CROIX IN SECOND TUSSLE WITH CONNELLYS

The second game of the series between Rose Croix Council and the J. J. Connelly club will be played Saturday at Marcella street playgrounds. The Connelly club has been playing fine baseball of late, having defeated St. Andrew's, South Boston All Stars and the Dorchester club, leading teams in the Twilight League.

LAWRENCE PLAYS LYNN ENGLISH

The Massachusetts schoolboy baseball championship will soon be decided by the Lynn English High and the Lawrence High school teams in a series of games. Coach Mark Devlin of Lawrence says the series is practically assured and that he and Faculty Manager Clement Griffin of Lynn High had made preliminary arrangements.

George Sexton

The first game will take place June 20 at Lynn, the second at Lawrence, and the third in a neutral city.

The Lawrence High team has had a remarkable season, having lost but once and having won eleven straight. The Lynn lads, under Coach Sexton, have scored even a more remarkable reputation, winning fourteen straight games without a single defeat.

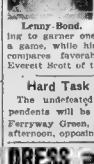
BIG GAME AT RUSSELL FIELD ON SATURDAY

The best semi-pro games of the season is booked for Russell Field, North Cambridge, on Saturday afternoon when the North Cambridge Knights of Columbus meet the Dorchester Baseball Club. Both are members of the Boston Twilight League.

The winner of the Dorchester-Cambridge outfit will be either Dan Davies or Batchelder and Sullivan. Manager Claude Davidson will send Kroog or Chipple Gaw to the mound for the Dorchester team and Foley will catch.

BOND WILL PLAY FOR SAINTS

Lenny Bond of Roxbury, who in the past five years or more has played with about every good semi-pro team in the State, Lenny has just signed with the St Andrew's Catholic Club, member of the Twilight League. This youngster is filling up the hole at shortstop and is doing a good job where Walter Lonergan, the former Red Sox player, left.



Lenny Bond.

Bond is a very capable ball tosser both in the field and at the bat, never failing to garner one or more hits in a game, while his fielding average compares favorably with that of Everett Scott of the Yankees.

Hard Task for Malden

The undefeated Lawrence Independents will be the attraction at Ferryway Green, Malden, Saturday afternoon, opposing Malden K. of C.

CHAMP DEFENDS TITLE JULY 1

Johnny Buff

Johnny Buff of Jersey City, holder of the flyweight and bantamweight championships, will meet Joe Lynch, former bantam champion, in defence of that title. The battle will be staged at the New York Velodroms on the evening of July 1. Joe Lynch won the title from Pete Herman, who later regained his laurels only to lose them again, this time to Buff. Lynch and Buff have never before met in the ring and the coming battle will be full of fireworks.

Beverly High Golf Team Challenges Dorchester High

The Beverly High School team takes exception to the report that they were beaten by the Dorchester High School team and wish to announce the following:

Beverly challenges Dorchester to meet them in an official match for the school championship of the State. Beverly is ready to back up its position with all comers.

Arrangements may be made with Manager Johnson, No. 19 Briscoe avenue, Beverly.

OFFICIALS NAMED FOR EASTERN Y. M. C. A. MEET

Dr. John Brown, Jr., of New York, is to referee the big Eastern meet at the Stadium Saturday. W. L. Nase of Pawtucket will be starter, C. T. Hepburn of New York will have charge of the timers, and Jas. Waters of Cambridge will be clerk. C. F. Foster of the Boston Y will be field marshal, R. W. Fitz of Brockton will head the field judges, and Dr. A. E. Garland, medical director of the Boston "Y," will be chief track judge.

LEONARD'S DATE FOR TENDLER JULY 27

New York, June 15.—Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, and his steady foe, Lew Tendler, have been signed to fight on July 27, and it will be staged at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City. To clinch everything, each principal posted $5,000 to guarantee weight and appearance.

The lads will weigh in at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock the afternoon of the fracas. Under the law the fight will box twelve rounds, but a referee decision will be rendered. It will be left to the experts to announce the winner.

WIGWAM BEGINS TO LOOK LIKE CAMP FOR CRIPPLES

CUBS-BRAVES BATTLE PROVES COSTLY ONE

By NICK FLATLEY

They should run up the Red Cross banner at the Wigwam, while the Braves and Chicago Cubs are playing this present series. More casualties are hanging around the ball yard than you'd find after a picnic flivver was carrased by an express train.

Our Braves, as you know, have been blowing the leaders wide open with a motley lineup on the job, as many subs as regulars. And it develops that Will Killifer's boys are staggering along in similar fashion. Manager Will's doctor bills look like income tax returns these days.

Cliff Heathcote was added to a big roll by colliding with Horace Ford yesterday. He isn't seriously wounded, but he'll hardly get into the series, which will not help the Braves, as Cliff has been playing a grand and glorious game.

Two of the Fielding Subs Are Also Hors de Combat

Two of Killifer's best garden subs are also hors de combat, nursing in the hand of the trainer. Young Mister Barber has a bad charley horse, and should keep him out for several days yet. George Maisel is at home recuperating from a blow on the skull out in Cincinnati, which is a bad place for the skull anyhow.

George was running into second base when Cavenay tried to engineer a double play. He cut the ball to first, regardless of the fact that Maisel's forehead was in the immediate foreground. The apple whacked the Cub and laid him low. He was rushed to the hospital where he was speechless for four days, which is a record even for Cincinnati.

After gaining his speech, he was still in a bad way, but is now recovering, although it will be a fortnight before he's ready for action.

Jack Kelleher Will Not Be Back for Some Time

Jack Kelleher, the Brookline youth, who won the third base job for himself in the Spring, dislocated an ankle a couple of weeks ago, and will not be back for some time. Pitcher Cheeves, after a good start, developed a sore arm, and is also wearing the sideline badge.

Bernie Friberg has a knee about due, which isn't bad enough to keep him out in case of emergency, but interferes, nevertheless with his swing at bat.

Then Catcher Hartnett is sporting a broken thumb, and it will be a month before he gets back into line. This bird, who hails from Millville, is a decidedly promising backstop. He caught with Worcester last season, and made a hit with Grover Cleveland Alexander, the minute he joined the team.

He has been catching Alex all Spring, the big fellow asking for him when Manager Killifer, his chronic battery partner, decided he had done about enough actual playing. Handling that great old bird is no soft job, for the smoke is still on the fast one, but the youngster has been doing it finely.

Hartnett also hits well, and was dividing the catching equally with the more or less veteran O'Farrell. He's only twenty years of age, so a month chopped out of the career that stretches ahead doesn't mean so much.

The digit was cracked in Brooklyn Tuesday, while Alex was beating the Dodgers, and was a sorrowful surprise to the youngster's father, who came up from Millville yesterday to watch the son perform. The Hartnett pere is a chauffeur on the street car line that runs between Worcester and Millville.

DEMPSEY SAYS HE'LL MEET WILLS

By Universal Service.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15.—Jack Dempsey said he would welcome a bout with Harry Wills or any capable opponent on learning that the negro boxer had posted a $2,500 check with the New York Boxing Commission as evidence of good will in challenging him.

He said he is willing to box anybody if a reasonable purse and a recognized promoter is found. So far, he declared, he had received no new offers.

JIM THORPE MAKES GREAT GETAWAY

New York, June 15.—Jim Thorpe has dropped another notch down the scale in his checkered baseball career, but the famous Indian athlete still retains the spectacular ability that won him world honors as an all-round athlete.

Yesterday, in his debut with the Hartford, Ct., club of the Eastern League, the versatile redskin was the individual star of a twelve-inning game which his team won, 4 3, from Springfield, Mass. He clouted out five hits, including a double, in six times at bat, scored a run, registered a stolen base and started a double play after a brilliant outfield catch as his share in the victory.

Greb Fights Longhren

No Boxing Commish Can Dictate to Jack

Los Angeles, June 15.—No boxing commission or commissioner will be allowed to dictate to Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, what he shall or shall not do, Jack Kearns, his manager indicated here when the action of the New York Boxing Commission in accepting Harry Wills' challenge and forfeit money was brought to his attention.

INDIANS HAVE BIG LIST OF CRIPPLES

Cleveland, June 15.—J. Riggs Stephenson, Cleveland Indians infielder, is out of the game today because of an injury for the first time in his athletic career. A fast ball thrown by Rip Collins, Boston pitcher, struck him on the thumb of his right hand and five stitches were necessary to sew up the wound. It is not thought the bone was fractured.

The injury came just when Stephenson was battling with George Sister of St. Louis for the batting leadership of the league.

UMLAH CAPTAIN OF BROOKLINE CREW

The members of the Brookline High School crew have unanimously elected Alfred Umlah, a junior, captain for next year. Though this is his first year rowing, he showed remarkable ability, both in seamanship and fighting qualities.

81 Start Title Play

Wilmington, Del., June 15.—Eighty-one entrants are listed for the Middle-States golf tournament which opens here today. The tournament will continue for three days.

GAELIC SPORTS ADDED TO CHARLESTOWN LIST

Gaelic sports have not been overlooked by the Charlestown Bunker Hill Day committee. A hurling match between the Emmetts of Charlestown and the Kickhams of Somerville will be played at Sullivan square playgrounds Saturday, starting at 10 a. m. A prize of $100 has been offered for this game. At 11 there will be a football game between Slun Feiners of Charlestown and the Lynn Highlands for a $50 prize. In the afternoon a football game between the Cork team and the Emmetts of Somerville will be staged. The winner of this game will receive $100.

ENGLAND'S STAR COMING HERE

Miss Hilda James, of Liverpool Europe's great-est female swimmer, has accepted an invitation to come to this country to compete in the Joseph P. Day Cup Race, the international swimming classic for women which will be held in New York Bay on August 1. The entry of Miss James insures an international aspect to the big race, for she is generally recognized as the best girl natator that has been produced on the other side of the Atlantic in years.

Hilda James.

GALBRAITH IN FOR SEVERAL EVENTS

C. F. Foster, director of athletics at the Boston Y. M. C. A., has received another entry of notes. Alexander Galbraith, former Everett High mile runner and member of the local track team, is the mile you will see Alexander among the starters of the 40-yard dash and 440-yard run.

Besides the number of men entered that we already have published, there will be more than a dozen or more youthful athletes seen in the Eastern U. S. Y. M. C. A. meet in the Stadium on Saturday.

Alex Galbraith.

LADIES' KENNEL CLUB DOG SHOW SATURDAY

Besides many Pekingese, terriers and English beagles which will take part in the Ladies' Dog Club Show on Saturday, thirty-five beautiful shepherd dogs have been entered, W. B. Widener of Philadelphia will be the judge of that class. All the profits will go to the Baby Hygiene Associations.

MALONE ROBBED OF A KAYO OVER DOWNEY BY OLD TRICK

DARKNESS BEST WAY TO BALK A PUNCH

By JACK CONWAY.

Where was Moses when the light went out? Now, boys, all together.

Make up your own line and then hop out and register at the nearest nut factory.

Moses wasn't the only left Yielder who had the lights doused on him. It's a favorite sport in some fistic centers to put out the lights when a local favorite is getting walloped.

They pulled this old trick on Jock Malone at Aurora, Ill., Tuesday night. Bryan Downey, made famous as a result of a couple of battles with Jawn Wilson of Charlestown, was the bird in the other corner.

Bryan started the battle by a knockdown in the opening session. Malone was on his feet before the referee could start the count.

Apparently it was an unwise move for Bryan to bet Jock so hard on the jaw. From the first round on it was a procession for Malone. He hit Downey with left jabs and left hooks until the Columbus, Ohio hero was as dizzy as a Boylston street flapper.

With Downey as blind as a bat, Malone sailed forth after a knockout in the eighth round. A couple of hefty right hand punches crashed against Bryan's jaw. The blows had so much force behind them that they shook up the Columbus delegation at the ringside.

Downey was as groggy as anybody's old gent is after the first of each month. He was lucky to last the round. They were batting 10 to 8 that Malone would win by a knock out.

Ahs, then came the dirty work. Some cruel villain flappered to the part of the building where they have a flock of livers and such things to control the electric lights.

Then, whang! Out went the lights! The building was left in total darkness. Everybody was worrying over their man.

It was four minutes before the lights were turned on. This rest gave Downey ample opportunity to recover from his groggy condition. He then ferried forth to battle and managed to stall his way through the ten rounds.

The stunt of putting out the lights is as old as the boxing game in this country. It's a moth eaten trick, but like hiding the ball in baseball, it occasionally decides an important contest.

Young Donahoe Was Crossed Up by a Boob Second

Young Donahoe, former Roxbury lightweight, was one of the shrewdest men in the boxing game when it came to putting something over on an opponent.

When Phil started a come-back drive nine or ten years ago, he was matched to battle Johnny Connolly at the Central Club in Bowdoin Square. It was to be a ten-round no-decision affair.

Connolly was a pretty tough bird and a good boxer. Donahoe wasn't in the best condition in the world and decided he would have to use a little strategy. Therefore he instructed one of his seconds to cut his glove at the end of the fifth round. Donahue had been tipped that there wasn't an extra pair of new gloves in the building.

Donahue's plan was a good one, but he was unfortunate enough to have a boob in his corner. Said boob got excited and cut the glove at the end of the third round. There was a delay of more than twenty minutes before a new glove could be secured. Donahue got a good rest, but he was obliged to box seven more instead of five rounds as he had planned.

Anyhow he went the distance and gave the boys "in the know" a good laugh.

Jock Malone Is Due in Boston Today

Tommy Walsh has wired the Arena A. C., that Jock Malone will arrive here today to complete training for his ten-round bout with Mickey Walker, which will be staged next Monday night at the Boston Arena.

As a result of Malone's decisive victory over Downey and Walker's lofty position in the fistic game, Monday night's quarrel is virtually a title affair.

Malone and Walker have both done some sensational fighting in this city. Neither man has met defeat here. Consequently there is considerable speculation as to the probable winner of Monday night's quarrel.

There has been a heavy demand for reservations at the Arena Club's office at No. 39 Court street. It is the first time in years that such a high-class match has been offered to Boston and New England fans at popular prices.

Matchmaker Goode has completed his card of preliminaries. Newman Regan, Brockton, and Larry Malia, South Boston, will start festivities in an eight rounder. In the second bout Freddie Madden and Young Donahue make the going.

The semi-final presents Willie Corbett, Tech graduate and Harvard student, with Billy Prince, a newcomer from Bridgeport. This bout promises more than the ordinary amount of interest.

DORCHESTER CENTRE TEAM AFTER DATES

Worcester Centre Baseball Club would like to arrange two games away from home, June 17, a. m., p. m., with a semi-pro nine. The team is composed of Chipnan, Geden, W. Bradlee, F. Dutton Erickson, Joe Hergyd, McGlory, H. Lawler, H. Hardy, Grace and Locke. Write to Walter T. Bradley, No. 11 Alston street, Dorchester, Mass., or call Dorchester 6161-W, between 6-7 p. m.

P. O. Nine Ambitious

The Somerville B. B. C. and the Postoffice team will meet tonight at the Richard Trum playgrounds, Somerville.

The Postoffice club will play Framingham Town at Framingham tomorrow night and the Town team at Mystic Park, Charlestown, Saturday afternoon.

All-scholastic Stars

By FRED C. LANE

No team can be successful without two pitchers and Howard Whitmore of Newton High is our selection to share the honors with Harold Hall of Everett, chosen yesterday on the Boston American All-Scholastic baseball nine.

Howard Whitmore

Whitmore pitched Newton to the championship of the Suburban League, winning seven of eight league games played. His one defeat of the season can be attributed to errors on the part of his teammates in the recent Newton-Somerville game.

Injuries to first string players caused Coach Allie Dickinson to use second string men in their places resulting in the loss.

During the playing season he won 14 games. He pitched 95 innings, allowing 55 hits for a total of 28 runs, eleven of which were earned.

His total of strike-outs for the season number 101, which is considered second only to Hall. Whitmore has had the honor of pitching all the important games for Newton, and the success of this youngster can be attributed to his effectiveness while on the mound.

Whitmore is but seventeen years old, having two more years to play for Newton. He has clearly demonstrated to the satisfaction of all interested in scholastic circles that with more tutoring under the careful wing of Coach Dickinson, he will surpass his fine record of this past year.

On the mound he is the coolest sort under fire. His change of pace has baffled the hardest hitting schoolboy in the Suburban League, and to top his fine qualities he uses the best of judgment that has pulled him from many tight places.

It is safe to say that there will be no limit to his effectiveness next year, now that the weaknesses of each batter in this league is known to him.

Tomorrow—First Base.

W 29 — L 4

Jack Conway says he's all reeled up as a result of the lull in boxing game. So he should be all set to hand out the correct dope on tonight's wrestling bout at the Grand Opera House. Jack says: "I pick Calza to win This is a tough one. I had a long chat with Daviscourt, and he all but convinced me he could toss a pyramid for a loss. He's a big, burly fellow, 210 pounds in weight and five feet ten and a half inches tall. And he's got confidence, courage and knows the mat game. But Calza has recovered from his recent illness. And he'll win. It will be a whale of a match."

Walker or Malone?

"Ask me something easy," said Jack.

TWILIGHT BILLS THREE GAMES TONIGHT

Everything looks like Twilight League tonight. There are three benefit Twilight League tussles on the schedule. At Malden the St. Andrews Catholic Club of Forest Hills will be given a reception by the Malden Knights of Columbus; another game will be played at Marcella street, Roxbury, when the J. J. Connelly Club meets the St. Joseph's Catholic Association of Somerville; while the third game will bring together the South Boston All Stars and the North Cambridge Knights of Columbus at the C. J. Lee grounds, South Boston.

All three games will be replete with fight and fire, as all clubs are traveling on high. It was only a couple of weeks ago that the North Cambridge Knights met with their first and only defeat at the hands of the South Boston All Stars and to think they are to tackle them again tonight is enough to make Dan Leahy's boys in Cambridge turn green in the face.

St. Andrews leafter a victory with Malden at Perryway Green this evening, and it will be a hard job for Manager Jim Flanagan to decide which twirler to send to the mound against King Bader with the Forest Hills outfit.

In the third game at Marcella street, Roxbury, the St. Josephs of Somerville will travel to pay a visit to the J. J. Connelly outfit. These clubs met about three weeks ago and the game ended with the score tied.

TEN-MILE RUN FOR ST. JOHN'S FIELD DAY

A ten-mile run will feature the St. John's Prep School-K. of C. field day, June 24.

The course extends from Beverly City Hall through Salem, Peabody and Danvers and finishes on the Prep School campus. The first eight to finish will be awarded handsome cups. For the best time prize a solid gold watch is offered. James D Sullivan of Danvers is chairman of the athletic committee.

NAME HARVARD CREWS AFTER THE STROKES

Harvard training quarters, Red Top, Ct., June 15.—Adopting the style set by Yale, naming crews Blue and White instead of first and second varsity, Harvard followed suit, and beginning this morning and continuing until Friday or Saturday, the varsity crews will be known as the Brown and Amory crews, named for the stroke in each boat.

This change, due to the fact that to the combination crew, the crew stroked by Brown, then known as the second varsity, beat the Amory or first varsity by five lengths, was too great a margin to pass over lightly and so Coach Howe got busy and made rather radical changes.

Captain Appleton was sent to the Brown boat at 4 in place of Jamieson, who went to Amory's crew at 2 and Cummings, 6, and Fuller, 7, of the former first varsity, were relegated to the fifth varsity.

The fact that Captain Appleton has been transferred to Brown's crew might signify that in Coach Howe's opinion this crew would represent Harvard against Yale's Blue, but such is not a fact as he has not passed his crew and will hold another race Friday or Saturday when will automatically decide which crew will be the first varsity.

MAJOR LEAGUES EXPECT BATTING RECORD

New York, June 15.—Even though Babe Ruth isn't setting the home-run pace this season, due to his belated start, the major leagues promise to pass the 1,000 mark for their collective efforts if the present pace is maintained. The season is one-third gone, but 344 circuit clouts have been registered—185 in the National and 159 in the American—and the opportunity to eclipse last year's mark of 938 seems bright.

LET JOHNSON FIGHT, IS CRY OF FAN'S

The Boston American continues to receive letters from boxing fans who believe that Jack Johnson should be given an opportunity to battle Jack Dempsey for the world's championship Harry Wills is also popular with the fans, but most of the letter writers favor Johnson.

The man who won over Tommy Burns and Jim Jeffries is still a big favorite with thousands of followers of the fistic game. "Forget the past and give Johnson a chance" is the keynote of the letter writers.

Meanwhile Johnson is in the Middle West training. He is planning to start his come-back campaign by meeting "Tut" Jackson next month. This match will be staged on the Fourth of July, if possible

James F. McDevitt of the Chelsea Monumental Company writes:

"Am writing in regard to Jack Johnson. I had many dealings with Jack Johnson. A more congenial man would be hard to find. All his business transactions with me were of the most pleasant. Would give Jack Johnson a clean bill, if it were in my power.

P. S.—"Those were the days of the Lincoln Club in Chelsea."

"Don't Step on a Man When He's Down"

A North Providence fan writes: "I am very interested in the stories in the Boston American about Jack Johnson. I am reading all the dope you put in the paper about big Jack, and if a man needs a comeback, big Jack certainly needs one. He might have done wrong some time in his life, but who of us haven't done a wrong thing"

"Never step on a man when he's down—that's my motto. Print this letter and let those who knock a man when he's down think twice before they kick him."

Here's one from New Bedford.

"We certainly don't want a negro for the World's champion.

"I think Jack Dempsey is the best champion we ever had, and I sure would hate to see a negro get it. Let Jack fight a white man."

This Day in Our History—June 15, 1922

THIS is the anniversary of the acceptance, in 1775, of the command of the American army by George Washington. The man who immortalized his name and rescued his country from British tyranny served his country without pay.

Huck Finn—the Original

HUCKLEBERRY FINN was drawn from real life. Barney Farthing, the original of Mark Twain's most famous character, died a pauper in 1917, in an almshouse not far from where he and Mark Twain were schoolfellows.

RUPERT HUGHES' GREATEST NOVEL

What Would YOU Do?

IF you were beautiful young Remember Steddon, a Massachusetts minister's daughter, whose sweetheart died before the wedding, would you try to bring up your baby among those who knew you in your own home town? Or would you run away for a fresh start with new surroundings? If you had your living to make, would you try to get into the movies? Dr. Bretherick, the family physician, advised Remember to go to California. This she did, writing her parents a fictitious tale of having married and lost her "husband." She is thrown in with a movie company, and Tom Holby, leading man, gets her a chance. She makes a hit in a close-up picture and is out in a terrific desert sand storm. She falls from a cliff and is told that the accident caused the death of her unborn child. Remember arrives in Los Angeles. This struggle of a young girl to work out her own salvation is stirringly told in Rupert Hughes' greatest novel. Go on with the story.

In spite of her struggles, Remember was snatched from her chair into the arms of this satyr, whose manly beauty was his stock in trade.

EVERY place is a Sabbath-day's journey from every place else. And there is no Sabbath—at least no legal Sabbath in Los Angeles. Yet the people seemed to be extraordinarily good and kindly. They seemed to get the sun into their lives. Their hearts felt as big and golden and juicy as their own oranges. Even the lemons had a sweeter acridity than at home.

At home "California fruit" had been a byword for bigness, high color, and insipidity of taste, something a little better than Dead Sea fruit. The smaller, plainer native apples, pears, and peaches had possessed a better flavor.

But California fruit had reached Calvarly after a long, dark journey, and it was eaten in a foreign air. Out here, however, where the oranges could be lifted warm from the tree, the figs sliced fresh for breakfast, the peaches stripped of their downy silk while their wine was new, there was no lapse from the joyous promise of their advertisement.

If the sunlight was of a gold refined and somehow enriched, the shadow was also of a deeper cool. Just inside its edge the sun was walled out. The first bulbiers had not known this. They had set above their houses the roofs of wintry climates, and one might still see in older Los Angeles shaded homes whose leaning shingles were excellently arranged to let the snow slide off. Since there was no snow to slide, they served as fluttering fetishes for sun-worship.

Over some low roof with the wide, flat eaves, casting a heavy shade about the windows. But this made the houses chilly, and the new school brought the tiles just to the brim of the walls; and these walls were not often glaring white as before, but brown, dove gray, salmon, shrimp-olive.

Where the shadows lay along the lawns or the walks they were of unusual design, not dappings of rounded leaves as in the mid-West, but the long scissored slashes of palm fronds, the thready reeds of papyrus, the pepper's delicate flounces.

Even in this Eden, however, there was a flutter, anxiety. The hard times that were freezing the outer world were threatening the roaring prosperity of Los Angeles.

Studios were closing overnight. Supposed millionaires were departing abruptly in search of funds to meet their payrolls. Stars who had been collecting ten thousand dollars a week or less were left stranded in the midst of unfinished pictures and unfinished mortgages and jewelry bills. The lessee fry were being cast ashore in heaps, like minnows after a tidal wave's recession.

The girls at Leva's were wondering how long their jobs would last. A mere cut in salary would be a welcome mercy, a respite from a death sentence.

This was devastating news to Mem, for she had landed on the tropical isle in the expectation of at least a breadfruit tree. Her blanched face told her story to Leva, who held out more hope than she inly entertained.

"Never say die, Mrs. Woodville," she said. "There's always a chance. The companies are turning off their oldest, most experienced people in droves, but every now and then they take in a newcomer. I'll speak to the laboratory chief. Anyway, your board and lodging won't cost you anything as long as we've got either here, eh, girls?"

The girls agreed. Their adventurous spirit included a reckless hospitality and they put out not care till tomorrow in the hope that it would never come.

After the dinner the victrola was set whirring again and Mem was invited to forget her troubles in a fox-trot.

She grasped at this. She had never learned even a lamb trot. Her father's church did not permit dancing, and, while it overlooked the sin in certain of its parishioners, there would have been scandal if the parson's daughter had ever lifted her foot in aught save solemnity.

But Mem was not allowed to explain. She was dragged from her chair and forced to copy the steps set before her. It would have been impossibly priggish and insulting for her to plead religious scruples, and she put her best foot foremost.

The dance mood was innate and she had a natural grace of rhythm that had languished unheeded. The steps were simple and their combination at the whim of the dancer who led.

Foolishly Happy

Mem was soon whirling about the room, with more or less awkwardness which only made for laughter, and with a swimming intoxication that left her panting and dizzy, but strangely, foolishly happy.

She had learned a new alphabet of expression. She misspelled the words and jumbled the syntax, but she was getting along somehow on a new planet.

When three or four men drove up in a car and invaded the house with invitations to a dance at the Hollywood Hotel, Mem declined, of course. Her refusal was ignored as of no importance.

"It's Thursday night," said Leva, "and it's our religious duty to show up at the Hollywood. Everybody's there. You might meet somebody who'd give you a job."

Mem begged to be excused. She could not dance and she was very tired.

"That's when you are at your best," cried Leva, who was an entirely other woman than the shrouded Arabian that Mem had met at Palm Springs.

While Mem protested Leva motioned one of the men, a young actor, to make her dance.

In spite of her struggles she was snatched from her chair into the arms of this satyr whose manly beauty was his stock in trade. It was the first time any man except her father and her brothers had embraced Mem since Elwood Barnaby had thrilled her with his love. She did no count the brief duel with Tom Holby in Palm Canon, since he had made no effort to overwhelm her resistance.

Anger Blazed

Giddy with the whirl and sullen with the outrage, Mem's anger blazed into open disgust. Creighton said he was horribly sorry and only meant it in fun, and by his abject contrition made Mem ashamed of herself. She did not know what to do or say.

This was her first experience of the confusion that comes from being too respectable on a holiday. To escape from the scorn of her kill-joy boorishness (as it looked to her now) she went out into the moonlit patio. The moon, seemed to make life simpler. It has a way of blotting the material details with dumb shadow and spreading a love light over dreamy surfaces.

From a house somewhere near and drowned in its foliage came a music of guitar and ukulele and young voices.

An automobile went by, trailing laughter in a glittering scarf. Over her head a palm tree waved an aromatic fan, as over a daughter of Pharaoh. Along the northern sky the mountains were aligned, built of some soft-tinted cloudiness as if they were a wall decreed between this Xanadu of all delights and the harsh, respectable realms of the East, a barrier between the woeful lands of shagbark and mock orange and this garden of almond trees and roses.

In a radiance so amorous that it seemed almost to coo, Mem felt that the great needs of her soul were love, tenderness, rapture. This yearning was divine in this light. In the bright lexicon of the moon there was no such word as "Don't!" Everything wooed everything. In Mem's downcast eyes her bosom was silvered with the glamour and gathered into the arms thought that massed upon the wall and flower and tree, upon the deep of the sky, and upon the nearest vine leaf aquake with the ecstasy of being alive at night.

The air was imbued with delicious fragrance that delighted her nostrils and drew her eyes to an orange tree, almost a perfect globe in symmetry, and seemed to be forming a little universe whose support was lost in the gloom beneath. In the round night of its own sky hung moons exhaling perfume and temptation.

Like another Eve she yielded to the cosmic urge and put her hand forth to the tree of knowledge, plucked the fruit that was not hers.

She did not peel the cloth of gold and divide the pulp, but, as she had seen these Californians do, buried her teeth in the ruddy flesh, tore out a hole and drained the syrup.

She was too well schooled in Biblical lore not to think of Eve. There was, however, no Adam for her to involve in her fall; so she took the whole fruit for herself. But then, instead of feeling shame as the scales fell from her eyes, shame itself fell from her and she laughed Eve had become Lilith for the moment.

She felt in her heart that there was something wrong here in this new life. But then there had been so much wrong in the life she had led before. This was a city of peril, but she had not escaped peril at home.

She breathed deep of the new freedom. She cast off her pain, resolved to bend her head and her back no longer under remorse, but to stand erect, to run, and dance, and to be beautiful and rich and famous.

Like a Prisoner

Like Eve, she felt that the first necessity of her new era was clothes. If she had had any she would have called a taxicab and dashed away to the Hollywood Hotel. She felt that she could dance with anybody or with nobody. She could be Salome and dance herself into half a kingdom, dance everybody's head off, including her own.

But it has been so arranged that whenever a woman is set on fire with a high resolution to do some glorious thing, an elbow demon always bumps her back to the dust by whispering, "You have nothing fit to wear." Otherwise the conquest of the world would not have been left to blundering, hesitant males.

Mem went into the house. The moon was all very well for beautiful moods, but it was impractical; it did not provide the wardrobe for the deeds it inspired.

She went into the house like a prisoner granted a little exercise in a walled yard, then driven back to her cell. She was awake in her perplexities when Leva and her friends came home. The young men raided the ice box, then went their way.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

BUT AS I SPOKE I FELT A QUICK GRIP OF ICE AT MY HEART...

By ANN LISLE

"THERE hardly seems a way out for Dick West," I said grimly. "With friends like you—friends so loyal to Jim and me — what chance has Dick?" But as I spoke I felt a quick grip of ice at my heart.

This must be the end of the trail for Dad Lee, too.

The man for whom Mabel Storrs had once cared and the man who was soon to be revealed to the world as my father would go down to destruction together. Involuntarily I looked at Mabel.

She seemed remote—withdrawn into herself. Her face gave no hint of what she was thinking—or feeling.

"You two girls look as solemn as owls. I get you Feminine tenderheartedness stuff. I like you both the better for it. It's the way you ought to feel—as long as you don't act upon it," concluded Tom, with elaborate briskness.

"We'll see you through," announced Mabel. "The minute you came into the office I got the impression that you'd be quick to find a plan to carry it through. I was mighty glad to see that Mrs. Harrison had a friend like you. After all, neither of us could do much. And you are ready to jump right out into the skirmish line."

Her voice was curt and businesslike. Its note of calm placidity was gone. The Goddess of Liberty girl was ready to do more than hold a torch.

"The little advance guard fellow on the skirmish line is Evelyn Mason. Don't forget that," declared Tom.

"Oh—yes, of course" returned Mabel as if something were expected of her and she'd do her best to supply the demand, whether or not she knew what it was.

Tom didn't seem to notice the lack of warmth in her tone. I was at a loss to understand it until I remembered how Mabel had resented my first insistence on aiding her. Her feminine pride hates to yield the palm for success to another woman. But why should she be so cordial to Tom?

The answer came to me suddenly. Dick West has hurt and bruised her heart beyond the point where it can entertain any man as an honored guest. Men to her are no completely impersonal that they do not exist except as adjuncts to causes—persons with whom to carry on the business negotiations which fill her life. Tom Mason, however, appealed to her instincts as a loyal, dependable and useful friend to Jim and me. So she met him gratefully and without self-consciousness. And Tom, astonished at finding a woman who neither coquetted with him nor challenged him, responded with the instinctive courteous camaraderie he'd have given a man.

Recognizing that pity and admiration are all Mabel has to give to men, I wondered which of them was in force to further my gratitude to Jim. Does she pity Tom, or admire him? Fiercely I found myself demanding that it be the latter. And as I realized I, wanted her admiration for Jim, I recognized also how much I respected the girl who had been courageous enough to tell another woman the ugly chapter of her life she confided to me a little while ago.

Tom's voice broke in on my reflections. As I looked up he went on:

"I've been telling this young woman about my cousin's and love affair. Darned if I know why I've been spilling the emotional stuff about poor Shelly and the way Evvy mourned him when it was too late. But I've had an idea since the moment I met Miss Storrs that she is the sort of friend little Evvy needs. I don't know why—but I think they're on the same wire—have a lot in common. Am I getting spooky, Donna Anna, or do you feel it, too?"

"I never thought of it before," I replied gravely, avoiding Mabel's eyes as I spoke. "But I think they would be splendid—complements for each other."

Then as Tom's glance caught mine demandingly, I wondered what seventh sense had made him feel the bond of sympathy which might exist between Evvy and Mabel—each of whom had loved a man who was to some extent his. I had seen poor weak Sheldon go to his death. Mabel must now stand by and watch the shipwreck of Dick West's life.

I had a sudden sense that perhaps Tom's notion was right and Mabel and Evvy would find their lives interwoven. But I shook it off. I can't afford to get "spooky," too, for a crisis in Jim's affairs is near.

SOME SUNNY DAY

CHORUS

Some sunny day, with a smile on my face,
I'll go back to that place far away,
Back to that shack and that red-headed hen,
She'll say, "How have you been?"
Then go back to the hay and pay in my breakfast.
Some sunny day I'll be on that express,
Flying away to my little bunch,
Of happiness
Oh, how I pine for those lips sweet as wine,

A Song of Yesterday

IN THE GLOAMING

In the gloaming, oh, my darling!
when the lights are dim and low,
And the quiet shadows, falling,
softly come and softly go;
When the winds are sobbing faintly with a gentle, unknown woe,
Will you think of me and love me, as you did once long ago?
It was best to leave you thus,
Best for you and best for me.

RICH GIRL, POOR GIRL—A NEW SERIAL

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

HANNAH HOLLINGSHEAD was tossing back and forth moaning and pushing off the covers that the nurse was trying to keep over her.

"I MUST GO TO PATTY," SHE INSISTED . . .

"I must go out" the delirious woman exclaimed. "I must go out!"

"Hannah," the husband urged, "please be still! You are right here in your own bed at home."

But she paid no heed to him. "I must go to Patty!" she insisted.

"Speak to her, Miss Brown," the nurse suggested softly. "Here, Mrs. Hollingshead," Adelaide said in a clear steady voice, "this is Adelie. What can I do for you?"

"Addie?" the invalid repeated wonderingly. "Addie? Why—what are you doing here away off from home?"

"I am in your home with you," the attendant said.

"In my home?"

"Yes, of course. And I am going to stay here with you."

There was a silence while the patient seemed to be thinking. Then she seized the hand that stroked her forehead and began feeling it with trembling fingers.

"I hoped you were Patty," she said brokenly. "But Patty wears lots of rings. You haven't any rings on."

"No dear—I have not. I am Adelaide, you know."

"Yes, I know. But—Addie—listen," her voice dropping to a sharp whisper, "I have something to tell you."

"Yes, dear."

"Nobody else must know about it—only you and me. I am going away from this place—to find Patty. She is lost in the snow—I am sure she is."

"No, dear, she is not," the attendant soothed.

"I tell you she is:" the sick woman exclaimed, struggling to sit up. "You shall not keep me from her—you shall not!"

She struck at the girl, then tugged violently at the bedclothes. Richard stepped forward quickly.

"Mother!" he exclaimed. "Mother, be quiet. This is Dick—don't you know me?"

With a stifled gasp of pain Adelaide Brown drew back from the bed. Involuntarily she put her hand to her mouth from which a little trickle of blood came. The delirious woman had struck her full on the lower lip and the heavy wedding ring had cut into the skin.

"Oh, my dear!" he said so softly that only she heard him. "Let me see how much you are hurt."

"It is nothing," Adelaide declared. Then, as she met Henry Hollingshead's inquiring glance, she repeated her assertion more distinctly.

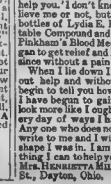
Operation Avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said the operation was necessary. My mother would not consent. Why don't you take Pinkham's, Hen-ricita? Do say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried so much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.



When I lie down I feel as up with-out help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. Henrietta Miller, 1678 Prague St., Dayton, Ohio.

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

— By B. C. Forbes —

A Marquette, Michigan banker who invaded New York a dozen years ago, while still under forty, and succeeded in doing what no other banker had been able to find a way to do.

The Middle-Westerner, not content to be president of one sizeable bank, determined that he would devise some method for duplicating Manhattan's crowded island with banking establishment, so that banking facilities would be brought within easy walking distance of any and all of New York's five million people.

But everyone sauced him it was an impossible thing for a national bank to do, as it could not open branches. Other aggressive national bank heads had wanted and wanted very badly, to do the same thing. But they had found themselves stumped.

The enterprising young Westerner however, had learned from his Dutch mother that if you make up your mind strongly enough to do a worthwhile thing, you can either find a way to do it or persuade folks to be to to-like a problem which had baffled all other banking giants.

And he solved it.

He had dug and dug into legislative lore until he unearthed an old, forgotten law passed in 1865 which read to him as if it permitted a national bank to organize branch establishments in its own city. Overjoyed, he submitted his "find" to the Comptroller of the Currency and other Washington officials and they agreed that he could go ahead with his ambitious plan.

* * *

Thus it was that Louis G. Kaufman became father of national bank branches in the City of New York.

* * *

The call he had received from New York was to become pres dent of the Chatham National Bank. He had received this call mainly because he had earned nat onal recognition by his record in developing, first the bank, he started it as a messenger, and second, the First National Bank of Marquette, of which he had become president, and by his statesmanlike activities as president of the Michigan Bankers' Association, and as a member of the executive council of the great American Bankers' Association.

Kaufman first acquired the Phenix National Bank. But even the combined Chatham & Phenix didn't half fill his program. So he went ahead and mapped out a plan, which received the indorsement of the Comptroller of the Currency, whereby his bank absorbed the Century Bank, a State institution having twelve branches, the Century first joining the national system on the eve of the merger. Other institutions were absorbed.

And now Mr. Kaufman is about ready to announce the result of another "shopping" expedition The Chatham & Phenix is ready to take over the Union Exchange National Bank. This will add about $3,000,000 of resources and will bring the Chatham & Phenix Bank's total resources above the $200,000,000 mark.

Boston Notes

EXCHANGE TRUST CO. has elected John J. Martin, Jr., son of President Martin, assistant treasurer. He will take charge of the Foreign Exchange Department at the Boylston street branch.

NEW HAVEN is represented the strongest rails in the bond market, together with Atchison adjustments.

ATCHISON SHOPMEN are reported to have voted heavily in favor of a strike in protest against the wage cut.

INTERNATIONAL AGRICULTURAL experts to benefit by advance in cotton, which should enable Southern farmers to make substantial payments on accounts held in that section.

CURACAO PETROLEUM (Royal Dutch-General Asphalt) has shipped 77,805 barrels of Venezuelan crude oil to Fall River, and expects to make large further shipments to that port soon.

ATLANTIC GULF & West Indies is drilling on unproved oil land south of the Amatlan field with reported indications for favorable development.

EAST BUTTE reports substantial sales of copper at 14cts. a lb.

Underground developments are said to continue favorable.

DAVIS-DALY'S resumed shipments to the East Butte mill are announced as gradually increasing.

PUNTA ALGERE HOLDERS of record June 15 have the right to subscribe, to new 7 per cent. debentures at $100 of debenture for every four shares of stock held; payment is due by June 30.

NEW HAVEN revenues, while still not at a rosy point, have shown an increase in every month this year. The end of the coal strike would probably put the road on a paying basis.

CALUMET & HECLA has had little trouble in recovering from its first of the week setback. Outlook for better demand for red metals is aiding the coppers.

ANACONDA is expected to be back near capacity operations within a short time. Good balance is expected to be shown for outstanding stock

MAGMA COPPER holders of record May 13 have the right to subscribe, until June 15, to the new 10-year 7 per cent. convertible gold bonds at par in ratio of $15 bond for each share.

LOSSES OF ONE TO 7 POINTS ARE SHOWN

Before a fresh selling wave, which set in soon after noon, the New York stock market extended until lowering losses from 1 to 7 points were shown in many issues.

At the lowest Maine preferred showed 5½, losing of last one and 4 points were seen in California Petroleum, Pacific oil, General Asphalt, Lima Locomotive, American International Corporation, Anaconda, Nevada, Phillips Petroleum, Royal Dutch, Standard Oil of California, Texas Pipe Line, Atlantic Gulf, Baldwin and Republic Steel.

PRESSURE BRINGS REACTION.

Losses of 4 or more points apiece in Studebaker, Producers & Refiners, National Enameling Houston Oil, Crucible and Continental Can.

Recessions for 5 or more points came in Gulf Steel, Davison Chemical and American Car Foundry.

Standard Oil of New Jersey sagged 8¾ points.

U. S. Steel was down 2¼ at its lowest

Sharp pressure on the general list around noon brought an acute reaction, proceeding Mon day's, the active leaders promptly losing their earlier highs.

International Mercantile Marine issued led the decline, pr ferred breaking to 73, against Wednesday's high of 81¼, while common sold at 19, against 23 on Wednesday before publication of President Franklin's statement regarding present conditions in shipping industry.

These stocks are 90 per cent under foreign flags, and the American flag ships are benefited for a time, but later succumbed to the widespread declines, despite the promise held out for ship subsidization by Congress.

LONE NEW HIGH.

Studebaker had been approaching its year's high up to the time of the break, but at noon sagged from 125¾ to 122¾.

Despite the outlook for a Mexican settlement, as reported, Mexican Pete at the same time tumbled to 134 from 137½.

At the outset, making its bow on the big board, Hudson Motor was well bought on the statement by President Chaplin that he sees no signs of a let up in automobile demand

BACK DIVIDEND ON MARINE UNLIKELY

New York, June 15.—President P. A. S. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine Company, at the annual meeting of stockholders at Hoboken, said:

"The surplus of the company, at the moment, is being used in its business and the earnings are such that, if it is possible to continue the regular preferred dividend, we will feel satisfied."

President Franklin made this statement in reply to a question from a stockholder as to what the prospects were for preferred holders getting back dividends.

Mr. Franklin said further: "The situation at this time, to say the least, is not good." The company has suffered a severe set-back due to the loss of tonnage on account of the war which is now being replaced. The business situation is exceedingly bad."

Mr. Franklin was asked whether the business is worse now than it was last year. To this he replied "decidedly so." In reply to another question as to what the drift of business was, Mr. Franklin said "downward."

Continuing, Mr. Franklin said: "We are looking forward to an improved condition during the last six months of this year as compared with the first six months."

AUTO CAR PRICES TO STAY UP

New York, June 15.—Automotive Industries says: "While there is no likelihood of further recessions in passenger car prices it is equally unlikely that there will be any general increases. Whatever upward trend may become apparent will be caused by the necessity of returning a profit in the fact of mounting manufacturing costs.

"The most popular topic of discussion within the industry is the outlook for the remainder of the year. It is not to be denied that it is exceedingly bright at this time. There is not the slightest sign of a falling off in demand for June and it promises to be one of the big months of the year.

"While it is the general expectation that July will bring a slowing up in sales, the volume of business will depend largely upon the farm market. There is every reason to believe there will be a heavy demand in the agricultural districts as soon as the harvest is well under way, which will be not later than July 15 in most sections."

STANDARD OIL FAILS TO GET PERSIAN PROPERTY

Teheran, Persia, June 15 (By the Associated Press).—Negotiations between the Persian government and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for a concession to the oil fields in the northern provinces have fallen through. The bill which offered the concession has been amended to empower Parliament to extend an invitation to other American firms, one of which already has entered into negotiations.

LONDON DEMAND FOR WOOL IS IRREGULAR

London, June 15.—Thirteen thousand and seventy-four hundred bales were offered at the wool auction sales. Demand was irregular and easier rates prevailed for lower grades, some being withdrawn.

About Time Mill Owners Acted to End Strikes

Beneficiaries of High Protective Tariff Must Consider Conditions and Wages of Employes

It is about time the mill owners showed some disposition to settle the strikes and lockouts that now have been in progress for three months.

Production is entirely dead in the biggest textile districts of three of our New England States. Many thousands of textile workers, ready and willing to work, have been thrown into the vast ranks of unemployed. Contentment cannot come to them and their families nor prosperity to the storekeeper and tradesman and all the branches of trade affected by their lack of spending power, nor can New England maintain its position in industry against the other sections of the country, while so much enforced idleness continues.

The workers have consented to put their side of the case before impartial arbitrators and to abide by the decision.

What greater present contribution to this bad New England industrial situation can the workers make than to submit their side of the case to impartial arbitrators and to abide by the impartial decision of those arbitrators?

The owners and workers of these New England mills are all beneficiaries of our high tariff, and are asking for still higher tariffs. The owners ask for these high tariffs to protect them from low wages abroad, and the Boston American entirely subscribes to the principles upon which their demands for tariffs have been made. But their application has been too often so twisted that only the employers receive the benefit from high protective tariffs. In industries which receive the most protection were found often the lowest wages.

We want to make a suggestion to our New England mill owners, that so long as they seek the benefits of a high protective tariff, they are not engaging in a strictly private business to the extent on which they rely on the protective tariff.

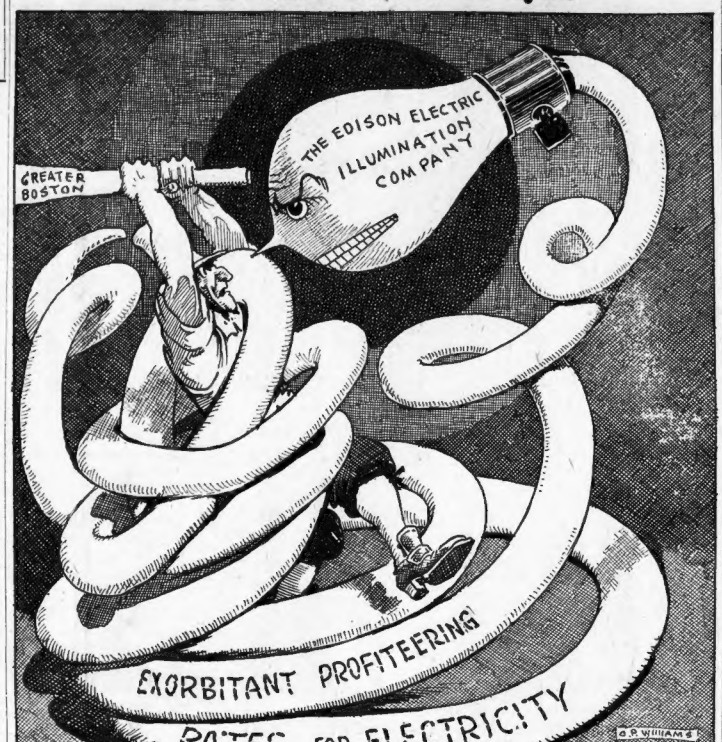
We want to make another suggestion to them in all friendliness, that New England is being considerably criticised throughout the country for its responsibility for the pending high tariff. This does not help New England industry. It is a decided political, social and psychological disadvantage. Our real, physical disadvantages are too many and too great to permit us wilfully to ignore the attitude of the rest of the country toward us and the danger of losing our skilled labor.

He Doesn't Intend to Quit



People Should Rejoice at Anti-Drug Law

Governor Cox Considers Bill Advocated by the Hearst Newspapers One of Greatest Acts of His Administration

We are told that Governor Cox regards the anti-drug bill, just enacted, advocated by the Hearst newspapers and passed by the Legislature, as one of the most valuable acts of his administration.

"It is one of the greatest reforms ever attempted in this State. The people have great cause to rejoice, for the benefits of this act will be theirs in all the years to come," the Governor is quoted as saying when he signed the bill.

In other States of the country, as well as in Washington, the campaign of the Hearst newspapers to abate the evil which undermines the moral and saps the physical strength of the community has resulted in the enactment of progressive anti-drug laws.

After you have read those sections of the law which provide such drastic penalties for the vicious creatures who ply this trade, turn your attention to those sections which provide for the care and treatment of the unfortunate addict who sins against himself alone.

He may go in the future to a State hospital as a voluntary patient and there without the old stigma of criminality receive the treatment by experts which will enable him to throw off the unfortunate habit, to rebuild himself and, finally, to become again a useful member of society.

Science in Dieting

Dr. Joselin, Expert on Diabetes, Claims Deadliness of Disease May Be Determined Largely by Victim

Dr. Eliot P. Joselin, one of the greatest of our experts on diabetes, that dangerous disorder of the kidneys, delivered the other day the annual Shattuck lecture at the forty-first annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Dr. Joselin said that 75 per cent. of the diabetic cases are found to accompany over-fatness, and he suggested that the best gift that could be made to a family, without them, would be a pair of scales for the bathroom, whereby an accurate daily or weekly record of the increase and loss in weight could be kept for the family. The watching of the diet, Dr. Joselin says, has doubled the length of life of those who are afflicted with diabetes in the last twelve years. He believes that the increase in the life of the diabetic can go on indefinitely if we heed science in dieting with respect to this disorder and if we heed the warnings of the progress of the study of eating. This is one of the diseases, the deadliness of which may be determined largely by the victim.

The Voice of New England

Needs Aid Badly.

Editor Boston American:

An appeal is made for a gentlewoman, over eighty years of age, whose son is so paralyzed that he cannot move without assistance. These people were once in comfortable circumstances, but are now wholly dependent on the generosity of others. Any contribution, however, small, will be appreciated and acknowledged.

Boston American Unbiased

Editor Boston American:

It is so unusual for a newspaper to give a true and unbiased report of a labor strike, that I for one, do not wish to see your story of the Amoskeag strike go unnoticed. Having been interested in industrial and labor conditions for several years, I consider your story in Tuesday's American the most fair and concise article ever read by myself. I trust it will bear fruit.

William The Conqueror.

Editor Boston American:

Your editorial in Saturday's American, on "Human Mongrels," while interesting, contains an inaccuracy about William the Conqueror. William was born of the tanner's daughter out of wedlock. There is nothing very much to admire in the life of William. His father, Robert, appointed him regent while the former walked from France, hatless and shoeless, to Jernalem on a pilgrimage. On his return at Constantinople he was met by two men sent by his son William who poisoned the old rascal.

Joseph C. Dolan,

Evil Prejudice.

Editor Boston American:

Within the last few weeks Harvard College has shown the world many things, the most important of which is that the college is permeated with that evil prejudice which is dangerous and detrimental to real American citizenship. When Harvard hangs out her sign "No Jews allowed" then that places it in the category of the "Soviet way of education" and I personally consider such an institution of learning, similar to a pet poodle resting in the lap of the rich, fed by idle hands, admired by those of similar mentality and a ridiculous farce and a menace to real progress and American citizenship.

ONE SHOULD DRAW LINE AT OTHER FELLOW'S FUNERAL

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

IT is none of my funeral!

That is a colloquial equivalent for an expression of healthful indifference toward what does not really concern you.

They tell a story which may or may not be true of that embodiment of vigorous, strenuous Americanism, known to history and to fame as Theodore Roosevelt.

It is to the effect that one of his sons once said of the father, then President, that he always had to play the leading part in anything that was going on. If he was at a wedding, he wanted to be the bride, and at a funeral he evidently regretted he was not so important as the corpse.

Now it is all very well to be ambitious, but one should draw the line on wishing to be the corpse at the other fellow's funeral.

The time comes quickly enough when you play that all-important part at your own leave-taking of this goodly earth.

Meanwhile, you probably have plenty of worries without going into debt to life by borrowing the troubles of others.

These words are designed to suggest that you hold yourself as far as possible aloof from the deadening entanglements of other people's lives, especially of those to whom you happen to be closely related.

For instance. It is splendid to be sympathetic with all the world, and again particularly with your own family. But, let us suppose, there is a black sheep in your fold. That is no particular reason that you should hang your head in shame and bleat your way apologetically through life, avoiding the company of lions who are your natural mates.

Perhaps your sister has strayed or your brother has committed a felony, or your father has made a bad failure of his business. What of that? It is not your "funeral."

Not that we would counsel callousness or suggest indifference. By no means. Indeed, it were well if the human race were already so exquisitely sensitive that we all suffered from one another's sorrows and misfortunes.

As it is, with all our sympathy, we must reserve the strength necessary to live our own life with the beauty of bravery.

If This Is Your Birthday

You Are LUCKY

IF today is the anniversary of your birth you should take to heart the ancient proverb "as a man thinketh so he it," for your life will be just what you will it to be—no more, no less. You are naturally endowed with a number of talents which are as fine in quality as in quantity, and if you develop your powers of will and concentration there is no reason why you should not have an enviable career.

This is a day of rather uncertain omen. There is no prophesying the outcome of decisions made, nor ventures undertaken under today's heavens.

The ensuing year will be one of great activity and good health for you. You will not gain financial prosperity, but you will lay foundations for the future.

A child born today will be generous, active and unusually imaginative.

Seen and Heard

By Lambert and Daily

PARK COMMISSIONER JAMES S. SHEA is suffering much pain from a badly wrenched knee as a result of a fall while attending to his duties in the park system. He appeared before the City Council with the aid of a stout cane to explain matters pertaining to an appropriation for the improvement of Franklin Park and the Arnold Arboretum.

They say that Old King Solomon was a wise old bird and that he knew a lot. He sits over the clock in MAYOR CURLEY'S office. He must have been asleep, however, when the bird walked in and took away the works of the clock right under his nose. "Time is Hecting," remarked the Mayor the other day. We'll say time flies. Not a chance of watching the clock in the Mayor's office.

As soon as the session of the Legislature is closed, SENATOR GARDNER W. PEARSON of Lowell will announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for District-Attorney of Middlesex County. ENDICOTT P. SALTONSTALL, appointed to succeed FORMER DISTRICT-ATTORNEY TUFTS, retires at the close of the term this year.

When you want to know anything about swimming ask CHARLIE MACKIE of the Registry Department at City Hall. Not exactly a "Brownie," but he knows most every wave in Pleasure Bay personally. He taught the art of keeping yourself above the water to more than 10,000 youths who contemplated entering the navy during the war. For many years he was captain of the South Boston Volunteer Life Saving Crew.

Candidates for public office in the city and the State are coming thick and fast. One of the latest is that CHRISTOPHER J. HALLIGAN of Dorchester will announce his candidacy for the State Senate from the Seventh Suffolk District. "Chris" is an active "Legionnaire," and will keep former REPRESENTATIVE JAMES MOYNAHAN, the only candidate to take out papers so far in that district, on the job every minute when the fighting begins.

ARE YOU USING YOUR KNOWLEDGE?

You feel that you are better educated, have more culture and refinement than men you know who are more successful than you have been, and you wonder why.

More than likely they have more ambition, more active ambition.

Knowledge of little value is eliminated.

What you have in your head does not amount to anything unless you use it, and it is the big, broad, fundamental laws rather than details, which should be kept uppermost.

It is to the man who is never satisfied that he knows it all and who studies constantly to make more knowledge his own, that success comes abundantly, if he uses what he knows.

Lots of men are working ahead of their mental capacity and educational equipment, and are in responsible positions, and keep them.

Why? Because they think and are alert in their thoughts.

REASON FOR THE PACT BETWEEN DE VALERA AND COLLINS

AS the result of the approval of the Dail Eireann, a position was created—so far as the Irish Republican army was concerned—which was very difficult.

This position was created because, in the first instance, when the Irish Republican army was asked to give allegiance to Dail Eireann and to function as the instrument of Dail Eireann, it stipulated that the members of Dail Eireann should, first of all, swear an oath of allegiance to the Irish Republic and function as the government of the Irish Republic. Therefore, when the treaty was approved in Dail Eireann by 64 votes to 57, a very considerable portion of the Irish Republican army read in that vote a repudiation by Dail Eireann of allegiance to the Republic of Ireland: and they felt as the result of that vote that their allegiance to Dail Eireann was thereby cancelled.

Immediate Split

Consequently, when the convention which was to decide their attitude toward the treaty was proclaimed by Mr. Griffith, an immediate split occurred, and a great number under the leadership of O'Connor, Lynch and Mellows took over the Four Courts and other strategic positions in Dublin and other places throughout the country, and declared that they intended holding Ireland for the Irish republic.

Those members of the Irish Republican army who had expected a majority vote in Dail Eireann and were willing to serve as the Free State army, took up their positions throughout the country and took over barracks, arms and ammunition from the evacuating British. The outcome of this situation, unless settlement could be arrived at quickly and amicably, was inevitable civil war. One side would have for its slogan the vindication of the plenipotentiaries in signing the treaty and the majority vote in Dail Eireann; and the other side holding that all of those who had died executed within the preceding five years had died for an Irish republic, and that that duty was a sacred trust which could not be abandoned.

June 16 Elections

The elections, which are to be held on the 16th of June, would fix the time of that civil war. De Valera held that an election such as was suggested by his opponents in Dail Eireann could not, in the nature of things, be a free election, because, first of all, the threat of war by England would be held up by the pro-treaty party as an alternative to acceptance of the treaty. Consequently, an election on such an important issue to Ireland should be held upon adult suffrage; whereas, the election register at present operative in Ireland is four years old, and does not include at least 30 per cent. of those young men who had by their fighting activities brought Ireland to her present position.

In Dail Eireann De Valera stipulated for a register which would include the name of every man and woman over twenty-one years of age, without any property or other qualification. By the Free State Act, however, the British had stipulated that an election should take place in Ireland not later than the first of July, and it was impossible, therefore, to compile a register which would guarantee adult suffrage. Both De Valera and Collins realized the critical position, and actuated by every desire to avoid civil war at any cost, have entered into a pact—the pact of last month—by which the election on the 16th of June will be fought neither on a pro-treaty or anti-treaty issue.

Personnel of Dail Eireann

The present personnel of Dail Eireann, sixty-four pro-treaty to fifty-seven anti-treaty, will go forward for re-election on a joint Sinn Fein panel, and other parties have been appealed to by De Valera and Collins jointly not to contest this election. The Labor Party, however, and members of the Farmers' Union have put up candidates here and there, and there will probably be fifty independent candidates up against the coalition panel.

As the result of this election, the third Dail Eireann will be formed. Its executives will consist of a president and ten ministers. The President and five of the ministers will be pro-treaty, and not less than four of the ministers will be anti-treaty. The one remaining seat in the Cabinet—that is, the Minister of Defence—will be decided upon according to the way in which the convention of the Republican Army, which is about to be held, goes.

Constitution for Ireland

The body of Dail Eireann will be engaged principally upon the hammering out of a proper constitution for Ireland; and this will be finally approved before the next election, which is to take place not later than the fourth of December next.

Another important function of the Dail Eireann will be the compilation of a register based upon absolute adult suffrage, in time for the December election. All the present members of Dail Eireann are unanimous that, as it was the young men and young women of Ireland who produced the present situation, they at least have as good a right as the other members of the community to exercise their franchise when Ireland will be asked definitely whether or not she is in favor of the treaty.

This De Valera-Collins agreement gives unity to Ireland, and is a guarantee that Irishmen and Irishwomen of the present day are able to settle their differences quickly and amicably in the face of any threatening national disaster.

—Medbury Says—

One Guy Got Sent to Jail for Life, but He Fooled the Judge by Not Living That Long

There is a firm in town which makes it a business of going around and opening safes and vaults and there are also several individuals who are doing this kind of work on their own hook.

Opening safes is very unhealthy, as man who do this sort of work have to be out most of the night.

It's not very congenial work either, as they generally come in contact with rough people such as night watchmen and policemen.

Safe cracking is discouraging at its best. One crackman was so disgusted with the last policeman he met that he hasn't opened another safe since.

He got sent to jail for life, but he's going to fool the judge by not living that long.

His pal got out of jail and decided that he was going straight. He's now earning an honest living bootlegging.

And now he's opening accounts in the banks he used to open safes in.

He figures it's easier to take money out of a bank with a checkbook than it is with a cold chisel.

At first he had a hard time getting accustomed to visiting the bank in the daytime.

He'd been used to doing his business there at night.

Before he went straight he used to work for the postoffice department. He didn't exactly work for them, but he used to handle lots of their registered mail.

He was so anxious to see if there was a letter in the pouch for him that he couldn't wait for the train to pull into the station; he used to stop them a mile or so out of town.

He didn't give it up because it was crooked; he gave it up because his mother wouldn't let him work on Sunday.

When he started robbing banks he invested his money wisely. With the first hundred thousand dollars he stole he bought a church.

And then he went there every day to pray that he wouldn't get caught.

He was as honest as the day was long, but he worked in a city where they had daylight saving.

He was so ambitious that he used to steal money direct from the mint.

He couldn't wait until they took it to the bank.

But he's in the bootlegging business now, selling moonshine, where he doesn't have to take any chances unless he wants to drink the stuff.

SUZANNE DEFIES MOLLA

Overrules Father's Ban on Her Playing and Will Compete at Wimbledon

Paris, June 15 (By the Associated Press).—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, after consulting a heart specialist, has decided to overrule her father's edict, and announces that she will defend her world's singles titles in the Wimbledon tournament. She will also play through the doubles and mixed doubles.

"It is my most earnest desire to meet Mrs. Mallory again," were the first words uttered by Mlle. Lenglen upon her arrival from Dieppe, where she underwent an examination by Professor Caron.

"The doctor has advised me to be careful, but my decision is irrevocable, and it all depends upon Mrs. Mallory whether she meets me or not. All she has to do is to reach the finals, which, as I said before, I fear she won't. I would rather meet her than Miss Ryan, Miss Mackane, Mrs. Beamish or Mrs. Peacock.

"I am going to England, where I hope to carry off, for the fourth time, the world's championship, and if anyone is to take the title from me it won't be Mrs. Mallory.

"I had expected some reference as to my being afraid to meet Mrs. Mallory, owing to my heart trouble in Brussels, and later in Paris, but I am sure I didn't expect it from this quarter." This was in reference to Mrs. Mallory's recently reported interview in London.

"From now on," added Mlle. Lenglen, "I will refrain from saying anything more. I will do my talking on the courts."

Doubts Statement of London Reporters

"I really don't believe she said it," said Mlle. Lenglen. "It doesn't sound like Mrs. Mallory, who always was such a good sport.

"I have never made any disparaging remarks about Mrs. Mallory," continued the French tennis star. "I consider her a good sport and a fine tennis player, but I thought Miss Ryan and one or two of the English players more dangerous. The records show that Mrs. Mallory was defeated by Miss Ryan at Wimbledon in 1921, and that she recently lost to Mrs. Beamish. I can say without lack of modesty that I haven't lost a set to either of those players in the last two years."

Will Not Fight Case in the Newspapers

"If Mrs. Mallory did say this, I must say that I shall refuse to fight my tennis battles in the columns of the newspapers. This is the last statement I shall make concerning it, but my racquet will speak for me at Wimbledon, beginning June 26."

Mlle. Lenglen appears to be in fairly good condition, although still having a somewhat drawn appearance about the face, and complains of pains in the region of the heart. She will leave this afternoon, however, for a brief engagement in the tournament for the championship of Northern France at Lille, where she was a victor in 1913 and 1914, when in her early teens.

Mrs. Mallory defeated Mrs. Peacock, the English player, in the Kent tennis championship tournament, at Beckenham today, 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Mallory now will meet Miss McKane in the semi-finals.

Miss McKane won from Mrs. Peacock, a few minutes later was "discharged."

"I SHALL KILL MYSELF!" SAYS WIFE IN COURT

A Melrose woman was injured in an automobile accident in which a man she was riding with was killed.

Her husband, from whom she was separated immediately served notice that he would stop making weekly payments toward her support.

Today in Superior Court corridors she caused surprise by screaming that she was about to commit suicide.

"I want justice," she cried. "I shall kill myself."

Taken to District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien's office the woman was quieted. She said she was Mrs. Julia John, formerl of Melrose. Her husband following the accident stoped making a payment of $20 per week, but offered to support their children.

WARD IS INDICTED AS SLAYER

Grand Jury Acts in Killing of Clarence Peters of Haverhill

By International News Service.

White Plains, N. Y., July 15.—An indictment charging murder was returned by the Westchester Grand Jury this afternoon against Walter S. Ward, vice-president of the Ward Baking Company, who had confessed killing Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass.

Ward's defence was that Peters and two others were blackmailing him.

Sheriff Werner of Westchester County sent all his deputies from White Plains to New Rochelle to arrest young Ward, and take him to the Supreme Court to plead before Justice Morschauser.

Ralph Ward was the first witness before Justice Morschauser in investigation of the charge by District Attorney Weeks that a conspiracy was on foot to defeat the ends of justice.

It was reported Ralph Ward went into details regarding the blackmail plot which Walter Ward said was behind the shooting of Peters.

Legal authorities were of the opinion that, if another indictment is returned in connection with the investigation of the alleged plot against justice, the Westchester County authorities may be able to extradite George Ward, father of Walter and Ralph, from Pennsylvania.

U.S. LINERS FULL OF BOOZE

Police, Customs Officers and Agents Unable to Molest the President Adams

First of the floating bars run by the United States Shipping Board to reach this port, the steamer President Adams docked at Commonwealth Pier late today.

She is enroute from New York to London and stoped here to take aboard first and third-class passengers. Customs officers boarded her on her arrival at the dock, and sealed her bar, where a huge stock of liquor is kept in readiness for thirsty passengers in midocean.

Prohibition Director Roberts considered the idea of raiding the steamer and seizing the liquors. He held consultations with several legal advisers, with Surveyor of the Port Herman Hormel, and with others. Although he was unofficially advised by customs men that he had authority, he doubted the wisdom of attempting to get a search warrant without more evidence, and wired Washington for definite instructions.

Neither he nor any of his men boarded the steamer when she docked.

According to Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, the Boston police are also powerless to seize the contents of the bar and its storeroom. Local judges, he asserted, would not issue a warrant without definite evidence of a sale.

Director Roberts stated that he would probably raid the next liquor-piping Board steamer which comes here with liquor aboard. There are several fine points he wants straightened out, he explained before he takes action.

He questioned whether he would be able to seize the liquors after the barroom was sealed by the Customs officers who boarded the boat and performed this ceremony the minute the boat docks.

He also questioned whether a recent order issued to Customs collectors and prohibition agents ordering them to seize all liquors in transit through this country after midnight tonight, did not act as a prohibition to his raiding the President Adams today.

Collector of the Port Laifkin was not in his office today. Employes of the office, however, stated that they were powerless to seize the liquors aboard the President Adams so long as the contents of the bar were listed on the ship's stores.

There is no limit to the quantity of liquor which can be so listed, they stated. Their powers only permit them to seal the bar, they declare.

But they asserted that it was within the power of the prohibition director to seize liquor in the ship's stores of an American vessel if he wanted to.

This was called to the attention of Director Roberts, who was delivering a lecture on prohibition in Brookline, but he took no action.

TENNIS STAR'S PARENT BANS APPEARANCE

Paris, June 15 (By International News Service).—A father's love is pitted today against a daughter's desire for a sports championship in the case of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the famous French tennis player.

Mlle. Lenglen wants to go to England to take part in the Wimbledon tournament, where she may meet Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the American woman champion, in the finals. Her father, Charles Lenglen, does not want her to go, and thereby hangs the struggle.

"Suzanne is purely and simply an amateur; she is not a professional," said Charles Lenglen, following his daughter's departure for Dieppe to consult a specialist on account of illness.

"As an amateur I do not think she is under any obligations to the sporting public if she plays at Wimbledon. It is her right to wait until ten minutes before the games start before she says whether or not she is going to take part.

"I have urged her not to play almost every day because a father's love is stronger than a desire to see his daughter a world champion."

It is understood that Jaques Dedet, famous French heart specialist, warned Suzanne a week ago that it would be dangerous for her to play.

Captain George H. Fleck, in command of the troops at the reservoir, said that five shots were fired by the men, who fled. The sentry was not injured.

Five Shots Fired At Reservoir Sentry

Providence, R. I., June 15.—A National Guardsman on sentry duty at the dam at the Flat River reservoir in Coventry, where an attempt was made to dynamite the structure, was fired upon by two men whom he discovered prowling through the underbrush.

Captain George H. Fleck, in command of the troops at the reservoir, said that five shots were fired by the men, who fled. The sentry was not injured.

Historic Emerald in Shop Window

Paris, June 15.—The historic necklace that once was worn by the great Catherine of Russia is now on display in the shop of Cartier in the Rue de la Paix.

In its centre is the largest known emerald in the world, weighing 100 carats. On each side of this wonderful gem are five smaller gems, the smallest of which would cost a fortune. All are perfectly cut. The stones are set in a double row of diamonds of the purest water.

NOT AFRAID TO SELL HOOTCH APPARATUS

Joseph Weinstein of Brockton today told Judge Morris in United States District Court that he was not afraid to sel moonshine apparatus because he was a member of the Owls and other fraternal organizations.

"No, I am not afraid," was his answer to the court. "I am a member of the Owls and other fraternal organizations and we are here to stay."

Weinstein and his brother Joseph were charged with unlawfully selling property designed for the manufacture of liquor. Dry Agent Williams testified he paid $5 on account for a moonshine outfit, which he said Weinstein guaranteed would make "booze and liquor."

He also purchased a hydrometer, test tube and whiskey flavoring.

FARRAR'S SUIT TO BE HEARD IN FALL

OPENS AS SHE STARS IN DRAMA

Love Tangle of Diva and "Perfect Lover" Will Be Aired in Divorce Courts

New York, June 15.—The prologue of the Geraldine Farrar-Lou Tellegen divorce drama has been written.

Geraldine's suit and Lou's countersuit were today placed on the Fall calendar of the Supreme Court. This means that the curtain will rise probably early in September—just about the time, malicious friends suggest, that Farrar, who recently divorced herself from her first love, opera, will make her debut as an actress and song, under the management of David Belasco.

The gentleman in charge of the publicity offices at the Belasco shop indignantly repudiates the hint that Geraldine's stage debut will be made on or about the day that the newspapers begin to print news of the divorce case.

Just now Miss Farrar is "laying off," although Lou is knocking 'em for a row of lunatics on the two-way in a vaudeville version of his late lamented "Blind Youth." In the Palace Theatre Building it is reported that Lou is booked solid for months to come.

What a tragedy it would be if Tellegen were playing Seattle, or New Orleans, or Denver, when the case came to trial!

It is rather surprising that Lou's suit was placed on the calendar. On May 26, counsel for Mrs. Tellegen believed their client had been placed in a more advantageous position by virtue of the fact that Justice Wagner caused to be stricken from the calendar the counter-action of Mr. Tellegen.

The original suit for separation was filed by Tellegen in Westchester County. The action was later transferred to New York. Afterward Miss Farrar filed a suit for divorce in Kew York.

Saving for Vacation

The Boston American will pay $1 for every letter published on "How I Am Saving Money for My Vacation." Writers should confine themselves to not more than 150 words. Address "Vacation Editor," Boston American.

PUTS ASIDE $2 A WEEK.

It is quite a task to solve the problem of procuring enough money to cover all expenses for a vacation trip. However, with a little time, patience and self-sacrifice it can easily be done. My plan is this:

At the beginning of each year, or soon after it, I find out when I am going to have my vacation. I then consider where I will go and the amount necessary to pay all my expenditures. Having done this, I begin to save exactly fifteen weeks before my vacation, putting aside from my allowance $2 each week. And, at the end of a specified time, I have accumulated $30, which is enough to cover my vacation expenses. Of course, if this sum is insufficient, the saving is begun earlier, or a larger amount is put aside.

JIU JITSU AND KNIFE WIN FOR GIRL

Chicago, June 15.—Jiu Jitsu saved the life of Joan Dare when that pretty girl was attacked by thugs. Miss Dare, blonde, blue-eyed and with soft white skin, practiced wrestling on a Texan ranch where she spent her girlhood. She was visiting a friend in Chicago, when, she said, two men sprang at her on a side street, and then:

"I fought for fifteen minutes until I got a hold on one's neck and flung him. The other was mastering me, but I managed to seize his knife and I drove it into his shoulder; then I got the best of him and escaped.

"I'll never forget the creepy sensation that went through me as I sunk that knife in the man, and felt it slide so easily through his flesh till the bone stopped the point. He just slumped back."

Miss Dare said she suspected an enemy had set the men on her, but refused to tell the details of that phase of the affair. When the police met her, running, her clothing was torn and her face scratched and bruised.

HOW TO SAVE ON YOUR BILL FOR DRESS

The cult of clothes might be more indulged in nowadays than it is. Clothes are still expensive, and, therefore, worth looking after; moreover, a good deal of beauty, art, and labour is put into them.

All garments require putting on in the right way, or from the outset their beauty and comfort are destroyed.

There are certain little tricks which some people practise. For instance, no actress ever puts on her hat without taking hold of it with two hands.

Generally she puts her hands under the brim, lifts the hat above her head, and gently lowers it into position. Her reason is, that a hat which is roughly caught hold of at one side of the brim will begin to sag at the other by reason of its weight.

Whenever she can, she avoids hatpins. When her hats are packed for touring, flowers are generally removed and packed separately. Ribbons in loops are stuffed out with a little tissue paper.

To brush her hats, she always uses a small long-haired brush, with a long handle. Such a brush can be bought at most milliners', and, to the girl who likes to look nice, it is an invaluable possession. A flat clothes-brush soon ruins a hat.

One of the most important tricks is connection with the set of your hat is to tighten up the head-lining occasionally. The head-lining naturally sinks towards with wear, and as a consequence your hat begins to dip with a bad line towards your eyebrows. The remedy lies in pulling the draw-strings of the lining together, or even putting in a new lining.

Sagging destroys the set of so many clothes. Your laced shoes will begin to sag unless you pull the laces up firmly and tightly every morning. If you wear buttoned shoes or boots, set the buttons back a little after three months' wear, when you will find they fit better round the ankle.

Half the spick-and-span look of clothes lies in brushing. Dozens of people brush their clothes after they have put them on, but this should be done first.

Never forget to turn up the lapels of your coats during this operation, and also brush around the hems of skirts if you are a woman. A real good feeling, not a carnal affair, should be undertaken once a week out in the garden. Don't use too hard a brush, but get all the dust you can out of your clothes.

CRAZE FOR MUD BATHS CROPS OUT AGAIN

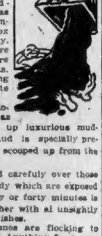
In the days of ancient Rome Athens mud-baths were as popular as tango teas and fox trots are today, for they were supposed to cure all skin ailments, besides making the flesh white and firm.



The Savoy Hotel, London, has recently fitted up luxurious mud-baths. The mud is specially prepared; it is not scooped up from the Thames bed.

It is pastured carefully over those parts of the body which are exposed and after thirty or forty minutes is removed, together with all unsightly spots and blemishes.

Society dames are flocking to the new baths. Anything for a new sensation—but the sensation of sticky mud is not one which appeals, however beneficial the results.

For the Lovelorn

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Beverly June, care the Boston American.

SHE WON'T MIND.

"Dear Miss June—I have been going with a girl for two weeks, and she invited me to her home. I want to know if it is proper to bring a box of candy or flowers the first time I go to her home.

A. M.

It is an awfully nice attention, A. M. No girl ever got peeved at a young man for such a compliment. I'd try it.

ROOM FOR TWO

"Dear Miss June—I am a young girl of eighteen and am in love with two young men of nineteen, and don't know how to find out which one loves me. Will you kindly advise me what to do?

"BLUE EYES."

That is a problem for Blue Eyes or for Eyes of Any Kind of an open-hearted child, you are, with room for two deep affections? Well, I guess you will have to leave your query to time to answer.

START RUNNING NOW

"Dear Miss June—I am a boy of eighteen and am keeping close friendship with a girl two years my junior. The other day she asked me whether I would like to continue our friendship. The only way to continue it, she told me, was to stop speaking to other girls. Since I know that she shows a great deal of liking toward me, I was not able to make a hasty reply. I told her I would ask you for an answer.

HIRAM."

Well Hiram, you are in [illegible] life of something with that young lady, and I would not call it exactly bliss. She is not going to stand for any trifling, is she? Next time she catches you in a frolic mongst you would better have your runners on and make haste while the girls are scarce so you and your evening angel. That girl means business. I think you'd better start running from her right now.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Boston American will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment in My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Boston American.

Dear Editor—I one day giggled at a very fat woman fanning herself at a distant corner toward which a business acquaintance and myself were walking. It was a very hot day. "How'd you like to be married to something like that?" I said. "I am," said he. "That's my wife."

J. F. C., Dorchester.

Dear Editor—My most embarrassing moment came when one evening in the presence of "company" at home I said to my three-year-old daughter: "Geraldine, go undress yourself and be seen and not heard."

MRS. F. A. K., Brookline.

Beer Running Low

Prague, June 15.—The output of beer in Czecho-Slovakia is diminishing steadily, and there is weeping and lamentation in the land. Heavy taxation, high prices for materials and the high rate of exchange are said to be responsible.

TOURISTS FROM AMERICA ARE VICTIMS

Taking it for granted that "all roads lead to Rome," the benifices of the Eternal City have followed the lead of the hotel keepers of certain German municipalities and have gone into the profiteering game, according to dispatches.

Only the hospitable Italians of their capital have gone further than the deer-serving inn masters of the Vaterland, for in Rome the prosperous appearing traveler not only pays as Romans pay, but more—much more.

Anxious not to be outdone by its genial public hosts, the municipality itself tried to pass a law taxing the already overtaxed tourists 10 per cent. of their hotel bills. But the entire race of tavernkeepers rose up as one man and killed the law, thus diverting the 10 per cent. from the public coffers to their own strong boxes.

But already the benevolent tourists to Rome pays a tax on his hotel bill, reckoned at 10 per cent. for service, and a luxury tax varying from 7 to 12 per cent. The proposed and slaughtered 10 per cent. was a third direct tax.

The preliminary 10 per cent. for service is theoretically a substitute for the American tip. But travelers aver that the tax is not productive of the same effect.

While the tourists—chiefly American, of course— cheerfully pays and pays and pays, the hotel proprietors sour-facedly lament the high cost of operation

Returns to Malden to Fight Broken Health

COMING HOME FOR MOTHER'S TENDER CARE

She is on her way to her mother in Malden. She will try to overcome the effect of another poison—a more subtle poison—that almost ruined her life.

The Malden girl, one of the wives of Joseph Douglas Grafton, Pittsburgh bigamist, "Love Pirate," was once launched on what seemed to be a promising career on the stage. Since last April, however, when bigamy charges were brought against Grafton, and details of the life of the man she once loved were made public, she has drifted away from the show business. Everything seemed to go wrong with her sinister tragic marriage to Grafton, friends said.

Her attempt at suicide came when she learned that her mother, Mrs. Paulette Lorayne of No. 295 Leban on street, Malden, was seriously ill. While she was herself in a critical condition at Bellevue Hospital in New York, after she had taken the poison tablets, Paulette had been visited by Peggy Davis Grafton, third wife of the "love pirate," who attempted to console the heartbroken young woman.
